HISTORICAL

On the seventh day of December, 1906, the Baptists of Southern California, in Convention assembled in Berean Hall, Los Angeles, resolved to found and foster a high grade, first class Christian college. A committee of twenty-one representative men was appointed with power to act. To the satisfaction of the whole denomination the citizens of Redlands made an offer of $100,000 and forty acres of land for the location of the school in their city, on condition that the Baptists of Southern California raise at least $200,000 additional. The proposition was accepted and plans were immediately made for the state canvass. Under the leadership of Doctor Jasper Newton Field, then pastor of the First Baptist Church of Redlands, the canvass was begun on September 1st, 1907. At the convention held in Los Angeles in January, 1909, the assured success of the movement was announced and it was resolved that the canvass be continued until an additional $200,000 was raised, giving the institution a total asset of $500,000. This convention also instructed the Board of Trustees to choose Doctor Field as President of the new institution. This was formally done at the first regular meeting thereafter.

To the forty acres given by Redlands for a campus has since been added twenty-three acres, including the beautiful University Hill, now occupied by the Administration Building and the President's residence.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

With the beginning of the first building the work of actualizing the institution may be said to have commenced. On September 29th, 1909, less than three years from the time of the inception of the movement, the institution threw open its doors to the public.

The University of Redlands was incorporated under that title in 1907. The movement was so full of promise for the future that the Trustees dared to call the institution a university, with the determination to make it such in the fullest sense of the word.

LOCATION

Redlands, the home of the University, is a beautiful city of 11,000 inhabitants, situated sixty-six miles east of Los Angeles, in the heart of the best orange growing district in the world, and close to the eternal mountains, whose massive strength gives courage, whose grandeur gives inspiration, whose repose gives rest. The city is located at an altitude of about 1400 feet, which gives it as nearly an ideal climate as it is possible to find, sometimes touching the frost point in winter, warm in summer; but, even in the warmest summer months, always having cool and restful nights.

Flowers blossom all the year round and the finest fruits are always in season. The class of people who have made Redlands what it is, coming from all parts of the country, is thoroughly cosmopolitan and is closely in touch with the latest thought and endeavor of the world. Redlands is a church going city, and with this sentiment thus dominant there is no saloon within her borders. In short, Redlands is a city of high moral tone and culture, justly deserving the name that has been given to it, "The Athens of Southern California." Many trains a day, steam and trolley, connect Redlands with Los Angeles and other nearby towns, the trip to Los Angeles taking two and one-half hours, through the orange groves and vineyards of the garden spot of the United States. Redlands can be reached directly via either the Southern Pacific or the Santa Fe railroads. It is also reached by the Salt Lake Route through San Bernardino and Interurban to Redlands.

The location of this place for an institution of higher learning, such as the University of Redlands, presents unusual opportunities for an ideal home life to parents desiring to have their children live at home while pursuing a college course.

CAMPUS

In a beautiful valley under the shadow of the "Everlasting Hills" the campus of the University of Redlands surely has an inspiring setting. Its sixty-three acres, under the skill of a landscape architect, aided by a beneficent climate, will in a short time become a spot of rare beauty. A special, and to many, a unique feature of the Campus is a regularly laid out and fruit bearing orange grove of 1500 trees, covering every slope of University Hill. With stately architecture to grace its green sward, winding drives, glowing flowers, and wrapt in the indefinable atmosphere which adds so much romance and charm to our Western land, the place itself will surely inspire with the highest ideals the sons and daughters who will throng its halls of learning.

THE BUILDINGS

ADMINISTRATION

The main structure of the whole University scheme, the Administration Building, was completed in 1910. It is massive and monumental in character, a pure example of classic architecture, of the Ionic order. The exterior is faced with gray granite and with its massive columns and red tile roof harmonizes admirably with its majestic setting of mountain and valley.

While designed primarily as an administration building (containing the offices of the President, Dean, Registrar and Treasurer), it is at present accommodating the recitation and laboratory work, embracing some sixteen recitation rooms, chemical and physical laboratories, lecture rooms, society halls, locker rooms, etc. The entire equipment is of the highest order, especial attention being paid to the ventilation and sanitary requirements.

BEKINS HALL

Bekins Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bekins, of Los Angeles, was completed and occupied in October, 1910. The building is classic in architecture and absolutely fireproof in construction. It contains rooms for the accommodation of fifty young women, besides parlors, dining hall and kitchen, and a specially equipped laundry. Many of the rooms are connected with private baths. Ample verandas and a roof garden foster out-door life.

REAVIS HALL

Reavis Hall is named in honor of Benjamin H. Reavis of Orange, Cal., whose generous gifts to the University have more than justified the naming of the young men's dormitory. The hall is a pleasant home-like structure, located in the borders of a beautiful orange grove and will accommodate eighteen students.

PRESIDENT'S HOME

To the east of the Administration Building and forming the second of the group of three, proposed for University Hill, stands the home of the President. This beautiful structure is largely the gift of Mrs. Julia A. Libby, of Santa Ana, and harmonizes with the classical design of the other buildings of the campus.

GYMNASIUM

At the northeast corner of the Athletic Field stands the gymnasium with a floor space 60 feet by 40 feet and containing apparatus and facilities for all indoor exercises and sports for both men and women.

ORGANIZATIONS

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

The Associated Student Body is composed of all the students matriculated in the various colleges of the University and the Academy. Its officers are chosen by the student body from their own number. Regular meetings are held each week to deal with matters of general interest to all students.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

A thoroughly organized and live Athletic Association, to which every student is expected to belong, is maintained. Each year this association has presented athletic "R's" to those members of the teams who have distinguished themselves.

SOCIETIES AND CLUBS

PI KAPPA CHI

The young ladies of the University maintain the Pi Kappa Chi literary society for literary and social development. The membership is limited, hence coveted. Meetings are held on alternate Thursday afternoons. This society is proving of great pleasure and profit to its members.

DEBATING COUNCIL

For the purpose of acquiring practice and skill in debating and oratory a body of the young men, limited to twenty-five, organized the Debating Council. Intercollegiate debaters and oratorical contestants while not restricted to members of this society, nevertheless find the drill in the society an excellent training for these contests.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

Branches of the College Departments of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association are doing active and effective work. Each association holds a weekly prayer meeting. Representatives from the societies are sent to the Bible and General Conferences for Colleges. The good effect of these Christian organizations is very marked in the daily life of the student body. Every encouragement and assistance is given these organizations by the faculty.

THE CHORAL UNION

The Choral Union is composed of those of the student body who are musically inclined. The union is under the direction of Professor Hopkins and is designed to give drill in general chorus work and, by means of talks and lectures, to give the members a knowledge of the historical and cultural value of music.

GERMAN CLUB

In February, 1910, the German Club was organized under the direction of Professor Hill, and meets fortnightly. The club chooses its own officers and has as one of its regulations, "no language but German for one hour." Besides the social feature the benefits of the club are seen in a better pronunciation and understanding of the German language.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS

The University of Redlands publishes a quarterly bulletin, one of which is the annual catalog. The other three are devoted to special studies and reports of officers and other matters of importance.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

The Spectrum, a monthly magazine published by the Associated Student Body through an elected staff, is an exponent of the student life and activities of the University.

COLORS

The official colors of the University of Redlands are Maroon and Silver Gray.

ATHLETICS

The University of Redlands recognizes the value of athletics to the college curriculum. Athletics is the vitalizing force of "College Spirit," and hence of value to college students in general. Athletics when properly coached and controlled, is of great value to the participant, for not only is the body developed, the eye made keener and the judgment quickened, but, if allowed so to do, the broader and finer qualities of mind and of soul, even, find expression and receive impulses and strength. Therefore athletics occupies the usual important place in the schedule.

An athletic park has recently been enclosed and a track has been put in fine condition. The track is a circular, four lap track with a two hundred and twenty yard straight away in connection.

(1.) For entrance to the A. B. in Philosophy, a student must present six units in English and Foreign Language, two of these must be in English and two in Foreign Language and the other two may be in either English or in Foreign Language or in both.

(2.) Any student having fifteen accepted entrance units, but only two of these in Mathematics, namely, Elementary Algebra, one unit, and Plane Geometry, one unit, will be entered as a college student, without condition, but will be required to take Mathematics C, Intermediate Algebra, four hours, and will be given three hours college credit for the completion of the course. However, this shall not reduce the total amount of work in Mathematics required for graduation.

(3.) A student offering a laboratory science other than Physics and Chemistry must elect one of these sciences in the college.

(4.) A student presenting only two of these three units, but an extra unit in either Mathematics or Foreign Language, will be entered without condition, but must elect the equivalent science course in the College, receiving therefor seven hours of college credit for the year's work. This shall not reduce the total amount of work required in these subjects for graduation.

In the list of subjects enumerated above the term unit is employed to signify the amount of preparatory work done in a given subject during a school year, the class meeting at least four hours of sixty minutes each per week.

ADMISSION BY CERTIFICATE

Graduates of approved high schools or academies will be given credit for any of the subjects listed below in which they are recommended. Blanks for such recommendation will be furnished on application to the Registrar and it is expected that all applicants for admission, without examination, will use them.

In the list of admission subjects enumerated below the term unit is understood to represent five recitations per week of forty-five minutes each, or four recitations per week of sixty minutes each throughout one school year. A detailed description of the essential subjects here named will be found on the pages following.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Half units will be accepted only when presented in addition to a whole unit in the same subject or in closely allied subjects, such as economics and history, except in industrial arts, agriculture, music, etc., as indicated above.

One year of a foreign language will not be accepted until supplemented by an additional year of the same language in the Academy of the University of Redlands.

Students who can present thirteen units in the subjects required for entrance for any degree will be classified conditionally as Freshmen. But no student will be advanced to Junior standing until all entrance subjects and all the requirements of the Freshmen and Sophomore years are completely fulfilled.

ENGLISH

It is expected that every student will have a knowledge of English grammar and the elements of rhetoric and be able to write correct English.

PHYSICS—ELEMENTARY

Recitation and laboratory course which is a prerequisite for the subsequent courses in Physics. The laboratory notebook is required for credit. One unit.

ADVANCED STANDING

If a student applying for entrance to the University can present more than the fifteen units required he may be granted advanced standing in the extra studies presented, upon the recommendation of the head of the department in which such advanced credits are sought, the head of the department reserving the right to examine the applicant before making the recommendation.

Credit without examinations for work done in other institutions will be granted only upon receipt of a satisfactory certificate mailed to the University of Redlands by the proper official of the institution in which the work was done.

A student from another institution of equal scholastic rank may be admitted to advanced standing in the University upon presentation to the committee having charge of credits satisfactory evidence of having completed the work claimed, together with a certificate of honorable dismissal.

Students failing to satisfy any of the above requirements for admission may be received as "conditioned," but such conditions must be removed before said students are admitted to the Junior Class.

MATRICULATION AND REGISTRATION

On or before the designated registration days in September and February, each student must obtain from the Dean a registration blank which will indicate the courses selected for the semester. The student must then present this statement of courses to the Registrar who will issue to the student an enrollment card and a statement to the Treasurer setting forth the number and nature of the courses for which the student has registered. The student, within one week after registration day or at once, in case of late registration, must obtain from the Treasurer a card of admission to classes.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Students are urged to register on the designated registration days. Absences from classes are counted from the day on which instruction begins, and these absences incur the penalty stated elsewhere in the catalog.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AND REGULATIONS

Candidates for degrees will be required to recognize the sequence of courses in selecting their work, unless excused by the Faculty.

Persons not candidates for any degree may be admitted to the University as special students, provided they are of mature age and give to the Faculty satisfactory evidence that they are properly qualified to do work creditably and with profit.

Special students may select their studies without reference to the sequence of courses, but otherwise are subject to the general regulations governing the student body. Such students may at any time become candidates for degrees by conforming to the regular entrance requirements.

No student who has registered for regular work can change his status to that of a special without permission of the Faculty.

No student will be permitted to drop a study later than two weeks after the beginning of the semester without the consent of the Faculty.

A student absenting himself from more than one-fifth of the recitations in any subject during a given semester shall be barred from examination and credit in said subject unless excused by the Faculty.

A student having three unexcused absences in any one subject is debarred from all college work until he has made satisfactory arrangement with the instructor under whom the absences were made. Two unexcused tardinesses are counted as one absence.

A student receiving a "condition," that is, a grade between 49 per cent. and 59 per cent., in any course, may not receive credit in that course until he shall have passed another examination to the satisfaction of the instructor. Such examination must be taken before the close of the semester first following that in which the condition was received. Otherwise the student shall be required to take the course again in regular manner when next presented.

A student withdrawing from the University before the work of any semester has been completed shall thereby forfeit all credits for that semester; but at the discretion of the instructor such student, upon returning to college, may resume a subject at the point dropped and carry it to completion.

The regular work of the student calls for fifteen hours in the class room each week. Without special permission of the Faculty no student shall take less than twelve hours nor more than eighteen.

Each student must take a final examination before receiving credit in any course, except that in the second semester a student ready to receive a degree or diploma shall not be required to take an examination in those courses in which his daily grade for that semester is 90 per cent. or above.

A fee of two dollars ($2.00) will be charged for each extra or special examination in any department of the University. Said fee must be paid in advance to the Treasurer and receipt for the same presented to the instructor by the applicant before he will be permitted to take the examination.

HONORS

Honors, as follows, will be awarded at graduation for excellence in scholarship:

"Honorable Mention" will be made of those students whose work for the entire course, just completed, whether in Academy, College of Liberal Arts, or College of Fine Arts, averages "A," and who have not fallen below the grade of "B" in any study.

Students receiving honorable mention shall have their names enrolled upon the University records as having won such honors, and the fact shall be noted upon their diplomas, announced upon Commencement Day and published in the next annual catalog.

PRIZES

The following prizes have been offered to the students of the University for the year 1913-14, to be awarded on Commencement Day:

1. For the best oration delivered by a member of the Junior or Senior Class at their annual contest, a gold medal or $25 in cash is offered by the President of the Board of Trustees of the University, Mr. Mattison B. Jones of Los Angeles.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

2. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained during the second semester by a member of the Junior Class, a prize of $10 given by Prof. Edith A. Hill.

3. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained by a member of the Sophomore Class, a prize of $10, given by Mr. Paul Moore, manager of The Redlands Daily Facts.

4. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained by a member of the Freshman Class, a prize of $10, given by Prof. J. W. Kyle.

5. For the best paper on the Flora of Redlands and vicinity, written by a member of the Botany class, a prize of $5.00 given by Prof. Geo. Robertson.

SCHOLALRSHIPS

A number of scholarships have been endowed by friends of the University, the income derived from such funds being devoted to defraying the tuition fees of those students to whom the scholarships are awarded.

$1500 endows a perpetual scholarship. Where the donors do not themselves award the scholarships, it is left with the authorities of the University to assign them. Conduct and scholarship are taken into consideration in the continued assignments of scholarships to matriculated students.

Particulars regarding scholarships may be obtained by addressing the University of Redlands.

ACCREDITING

The work of the University of Redlands will be accepted by the University of California or Leland Stanford, Jr., University for admission to Sophomore, Junior, Senior or Graduate standing.

STUDENT HELP

A number of our students are employed in the buildings and about the Campus to assist them in defraying a part of their expenses.

Often citizens of Redlands apply to the University for student help in exchange for room rent and board, or for other compensation. We are glad to be able to thus help out students and for that purpose keep on file a list of such applications.

Inquiries regarding this matter should be addressed to the University of Redlands.

DORMITORIES, ROOM AND BOARD

In the Bekins Hall for women and the Reavis Hall for men accommodation is provided for a limited number of students. Thoroughly competent matrons in charge of the dormitories give assurance of adequate control. In both the halls it will be the purpose of the administration to approximate the home life as closely as possible.

Students unable to secure accommodations in the halls or desirous of securing rooms and board elsewhere, may obtain from the University of Redlands a list of approved locations. Students will be permitted to room only in places approved by the Faculty.

For cost of rooms and board see Expenses.

EXPENSES

It is believed that the expenses at this institution are as low as is consistent with the high character of the work done. The following schedule will serve to indicate the principal items:

Tuition per semester, payable in advance:

College of Liberal Arts	$50.00
Academy	37.50

Matriculation Fee:

College of Liberal Arts, and Fine Arts $	5.00
Academy	3.00

Laboratory Fees:

College Chemistry, for each course, per semester	$ 8.00
Academy Chemistry for each course per semester	$ 5.00
College course in Biology, per semester	$ 1.00

A deposit of five dollars ($5.00) is required in Chemistry to cover breakage. This deposit, less cost of breakage, is refunded at the end of the year.

Physics—

College Physics, for each course, per semester	$ 5.00
Academy Physics, for each course, per semester	3.00

No breakage deposit is required in Physics, but an account is kept of all breakages and a charge is made therefor.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Students carrying not more than five hours of work will be charged one-third of the regular tuition fee; those carrying from six to ten hours inclusive, will be charged two-thirds of the regular fee, and those carrying more than ten hours will pay the full fee.

Students preparing for the ministry and children of ministers and missionaries will be granted a discount of 50 per cent. in tuition fees for regular work in the Academy and the College of Liberal Arts.

Special attention is called to the fact that the charge for tuition includes gymnasium, library, graduation and all incidental fees other than the matriculation fee and those connected with the laboratory work.

No student may attend classes for more than one week after the regular registration day without having made satisfactory arrangements with the treasurer concerning all monies due the University.

DORMITORY EXPENSES

The larger number of the dormitory rooms are arranged for two in a room, being furnished with two beds and in some of the rooms two closets.

The beds are single and provided with mattresses 6 ft. 2 in., by 3 ft., and pillows 23 by 30 inches.

Each student is expected to furnish bed covers, linen and towels.

Rooms and Board at the Dormitories:

Two in a room, per month.....$27 each

Two in room with private bath, per month.. $30 each

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

When paid by the semester in advance, $105 and $115 respectively. Of this sum $20 per month is reckoned for the board and the balance as room rental. In case a student desires to room alone in one of the double rooms, a half more will be added to the room rental.

The dormitories will be closed during the Christmas and the spring vacations unless a number of students desire to remain, in which case those students paying the semester rate will be charged an additional fee for their accommodations during these periods.

The necessary expenses, including room, board, tuition, books and laundry, will average about $350 or $375 for the year.

Rooms in the dormitory may be reserved at any time for 1914-15 by a deposit of five dollars with the University. This deposit will be deducted from the charges of the first month.

LIBRARY

The library of almost 5000 volumes and several hundred unbound pamphlets, contains especially well selected works on History, English and Modern Languages. This number includes about 3000 volumes recently received as a permanent loan from California College, Oakland, Cal.

Many valuable books and sets have been given by generous friends of the University.

Moreover, through the courtesy of the A. K. Smiley Public Library of Redlands, with 22,000 volumes, the University Library is a depository, throughout the college year, for such books as the different departments may from time to time require.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student shall be permitted to graduate from the University who has not credit for at least 120 hours, two years of physical education and who has not taken at least one year of the regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

GRADUATE WORK

The secondary degrees of A. M. and M. S. will be awarded for one year's residence work in addition to that required for the degrees of A. B. or B. S. A candidate for the Master's degree shall select a major department in which he must do two-thirds of his work under the direction of the professor in charge of that department. The remaining one-third of the work required shall be taken in some other department or in not more than two others. Upon the completion of the year's study the candidate must pass an examination upon the subjects taken, such examination to be written, or written and oral, conducted by the instructors in the departments in which the candidate has taken his work and a visiting professor chosen from some other department by the President.

In addition to the resident work and the examination, as above indicated, the candidate shall prepare a thesis representing the results of original investigation on some subject suggested by the professor in charge of the major department. This thesis must conform to definite regulations, show independent investigation and be clothed in such language as will demonstrate the candidate's ability to properly handle such material.

ENGLISH

Egbert Ray Nichols, Professor

Alice M. Williams, Associate Professor

Twelve units of English are required of A. B., and nine of B. S. students, the first six of which must be courses I. and II., which are prerequisites to all others except VII., VIII., XXI., and XXIII., and XXIV.

The aim of the English department is threefold: (1) to train the students in the art of self-expression or English Composition, written and oral; (2) to give the student definite knowledge of the greater writers of English literature; and, (3) to enable the student to appreciate and estimate in a measure by the higher standards of criticism the value and wealth of English literature.

The work of the department has been grouped under three heads. This division of the department is the logical and natural one of (A) Courses in Composition, (B) Courses in English Literature, and (C) Courses in Public Speaking. The courses in Divisions A and C are given by Professor Nichols. Miss Williams assists with the courses in Division B.

A.—COURSES IN COMPOSITION

I. FRESHMEN RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

A study of composition, oral and written, with regular practice in writing and speaking. Text—Linn's "Essentials of English Composition."

Required of all Freshmen.

Three hours a week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

I. FRESHMEN RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

Continuation of Course I.

Required of all Freshmen.

Three hours a week, second semester.

III. ADVANCED COMPOSITION, AND MODERN LITERATURE

(a) A course in composition designed for those who wish to continue writing work beyond the Freshman year. A regular schedule of writing is followed. Longer themes are required and more attention is given to criticism than in English I. and II. English III. and IV. may be taken two years with full credit for each year. Modern literature is studied in this course regularly for a part of each week, course (b) being given with (a) one year and course (c) the following year.

Three hours, first semester.

*(b) The Short-story

An outline study of the masterpieces of short prose fiction following a biographical, historical, or type classification. Collateral reading and oral reports on modern short-story writers required.

†(c) The Essay

An outline study of the essay and "article" in contemporary writing, following a biographical or type classification. Collateral reading and reports.

IV. ADVANCED COMPOSITION AND MODERN LITERATURE

(a) A continuation of (a) as outlined in English III.

*(b) The Short-story

A study of the rhetoric and technique of the short-story. Text—Pitkin's "Short-story writing." Collateral reading and reports.

†(c) Modern Published Drama

An outline study of contemporary drama as found in the published works of various dramatists, following a comparative literature, biographical, or type classification. Collateral reading and reports. Course (c) is designed to alternate with course (b) as planned in English III.

V. JOURNALISM

An elementary course in newspaper writing, including a study of reporting, editorial writing, features, advertising, etc. Two hours. Offered conditionally, first semester.

B—COURSES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

VII. HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

A general outline course in English literature from Beowulf to the year 1900. Text—Crawshaw's "The Making of English Literature."

Required of Freshmen not presenting credit in literature.

Two hours a week, first semester.

VIII. HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

A continuation of English VII.

Two hours a week, second semester.

IX. SHAKESPEARE AND THE ELIZABETHAN AGE

(a) An intensive study of three plays of Shakespeare including Hamlet or Othello.

ANCIENT LANGUAGES

James W. Kyle, Professor

A minimum of eighteen hours in Latin or Greek is required for the A. B. degree in Ancient Language. These may be selected at pleasure from the following twelve courses:

LATIN

I. CICERO: DE SENECTUTE AND DE AMICITIA

Review of forms and syntax. Discussion of the life and thought of Cicero and the sources of his philosophy.

Three hours per week, first semester.

II. HORACE: SELECTIONS FROM ODES, SATIRES AND EPISTLES

Will be read metrically to secure ease and fluency in the Latin. Parallel passages from Greek and English poets. Discussion of the spirit and art of Horace.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. LIVY: SELECTIONS FROM BOOKS I., XXI. AND XXII.

Lectures on the history of Rome. Discussion of the style and rhetorical methods of Livy.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. TACITUS: ANNALS

Systematic study of the style of Tacitus. Comparison with Livy and Thucydides. Lectures on the life and times of Tacitus.

Three hours per week, second semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

V. PLAUTUS: CAPTIVI, TRINUMMUS AND RUDENS; TERENCE: ANDRIA.

Metrical reading. Lectures on Latin Comedy and the Greek Theatre.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VI. LUCRETIUS; CATULLUS; TIBULLUS; SELECTIONS

Metrical reading, lectures and critical essays on the Latin poets.

Three hours per week, second semester.

GREEK

I. LYSIAS: SELECTED ORATIONS

Exercises in recomposition of the text. Analysis of style of Lysias. Lectures on the Greek orators.

Three hours per week, first semester.

II. HOMER: ILIAD, SELECTIONS

Study of forms from text and from Sterrett's Dialect of Homer. Metrical reading of the Greek. Lectures on the Homeric Poems as literature.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. LUCIAN: SELECTED DIALOGUES

Exercises in recomposition. Required reading of other dialogues in translation. Lectures on the Greek rhetoricians.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. PLATO: APOLOGY, CRITO AND PART OF THE PHAEDO

Discussion of the life and teachings of Socrates. Reading and reviews of the Gorgias, Symposium and Republic in Jowett's translation.

Three hours per week, second semester.

V. EURIPIDES: IPHIGENEIA IN TAURIS; ARISTOPHANES: CLOUDS

Discussion of the plot and characters. Lectures on the Greek theatre. Study of the various metres and exercises in metrical reading.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VI. DEMOSTHENES: ORATION ON THE CROWN

Analysis of the style of Demosthenes. Supplemented by readings from Dionysius and select passages from Hyperides, Isaeus, Aeschines and Isocrates.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII. GREEK LITERATURE IN ENGLISH

Lectures on the history of Greek Literature accompanied by class work in Wright's Manual. Required reading of three Greek authors per semester in the best translations, with critical review of each. The power to criticise independently and appreciate reasonably a work of literary art is sought in this course as well as some direct and personal acquaintances with the literature of Greece.

Elective.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. GREEK LITERATURE IN ENGLISH

Continuation of Greek VII.

Elective.

Three hours per week, second semester.

IX. MODERN GREEK

A Practical Method by Rangabe will be used as a guide. The Eirenikos, a Greek weekly newspaper of San Francisco, taken by each member of the class, will be read. Part of each hour will be given to conversation in Modern Greek.

Three hours per week, first semester.

Elective. May be substituted for Greek I.

X. MODERN GREEK

Continuation of Greek IX. A magazine published at Athens will be taken by each member of the class. Short stories by present day writers will be read. Conversation on current topics continued.

Three hours per week, second semester.

Elective. May be substituted for Greek II.

Note—For the present the courses in elementary Greek and Xenophon's Anabasis, if taken in this institution, will receive college credit as electives, at the rate of three hours per semester.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY

Victor L. Duke, Professor

I. SOLID GEOMETRY

The fundamental proportions of Solid and Spherical Geometry with many original exercises applied especially to the mensuration of solids.

Prerequisite, one unit of Algebra and one unit Plane Geometry.

Three hours per week, first semester.

(This course is parallel to Mathematic D, Academy and for the year 1914-15 they will be combined.)

II. TRIGONOMETRY

Analytic Trigonometry, the proofs and applications of the fundamental relations among the functions of angles. Practical Trigonometry, the solution of the plane triangle, measurements of heights and distances, sufficient of Spherical Trigonometry to determine the spherical triangle.

Prerequisite, Algebra, one and one-half units; Plane Geometry. One unit.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. COLLEGE ALGEBRA

Rapid review of the Theory of Quadratic Equations. Permutations and Combinations, Series, Logarithms, Determinants and elementary Theory of Equations.

Prerequisite one and one-half units of Algebra and one unit Plane Geometry.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. ELEMENTS OF ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

A study of the point, the line and the circle, with some of the more important and elementary theorems on the conic sections.

Prerequisite, same as for Math. III plus Math. II.
Three hours per week, second semester.

V. DIFFERENTIAL CALCULUS

Fundamental formulae and processes of differentiation and an insight into the powerful factor which this subject is in modern scientific research.

Three hours per week, first semester.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-IV.

VI. INTEGRAL CALCULUS

A study of the processes of integration and their application to physical and mechanical problems.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-V.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

A study of the heavenly bodies, their constitution, laws of motion, physical properties and the processes by which man discovered these facts.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

Continuation of Mathematics VII.

Three hours per week, second semester.

IX. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

A more detailed study of the properties of the conic sections; some insight into the study of higher plane curves. Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Two hours per week, first semester

X. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

Continuation of Mathematics IX.

Two hours per week, second semester.

XI. ADVANCED THEORY OF EQUATIONS

Equations of higher degrees, symmetric functions of roots, determinants of higher orders.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Two hours per week, first semester.

XII. ADVANCED THEORY OF EQUATIONS

Continuation of Mathematics XI.

Two hours per week, second semester.

XIII. DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Principles involved in the solution of such equations and the applications of this branch of Mathematics to Mechanics.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Three hours per week, first semester.

XIV. DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Continuation of Mathematics XIII.

Three hours per week, second semester.

XV. ADVANCED INTEGRAL CALCULUS

Special attention will be given to the definite integral and to elliptic integrals.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Two hours per week, first semester.

XVI. ADVANCED INTEGRAL CALCULUS

Continuation of Mathematics XV.

Two hours per week, second semester.

CHEMISTRY

S. Guy Jones, Professor

I. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in general and theoretical chemistry, accompanied by a laboratory course in qualitative analysis. Determination of the composition of natural and commercial products.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry I.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

III. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

General methods of Gravimetric Analysis. Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Laboratory work three periods per week, first semester.

IV. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry III. Gravimetric and Volumetric Analysis.

Laboratory work three periods per week, second semester.

V. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

A study of the compounds of Carbon.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VI. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry V.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

VII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in quantitative manipulations and determinations. The aim of the course is to obtain skill in quantitative manipulation and a knowledge of methods which will enable the student to quickly and easily become proficient in any of the several lines of quantitative analytical Chemistry.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I-IV.

Four laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VIII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry VII.

Four laboratory periods per week, second semester.

IX. INORGANIC PREPARATIONS

Study of the accepted methods of preparing the principal inorganic compounds.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

X. BLOW-PIPE ANALYSIS

A laboratory course in qualitative blow-pipe analysis.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Three laboratory periods per week, second semester.

ENGINEERING

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

I. MECHANICAL DRAWING

Use and care of drawing instruments, free-hand and mechanical lettering, exercises in projection and simple drawing.

Prerequisite, Mathematics A and B.

Two drawing periods per week, first semester.

II. CONTINUATION OF I.

Drawing accurately to scale plans, elevations, and sections from student's own measurements and free-hand sketches of simple machine parts; plan and elevation of some building measured by students.

Prerequisite Engineering I.

Two drawing periods per week, second semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

III. SURVEYING

The use, care and adjustment of the Surveyor's instruments. Field work; chain and tape surveying, transit surveys, leveling, curves, etc.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II and III.

One recitation and two field periods per week, second semester.

IV. GRAPHIC STATICS

A study of methods of representing forces graphically and the application of the same in the determination of stress in structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Physics I and Mathematics I-III.

Recitation two hours and one drawing period per week, second semester.

V. APPLIED MECHANICS

A study of mechanics of materials including elastic and ultimate strengths, and elastic ultimate deformations, cases of simple stress, theory of beams, columns, and shafts; also a study of the principles of reinforced concrete and their application in various structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Physics I.

Three recitations and one laboratory period per week, first semester.

PHYSICS

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

I. MECHANICS, MOLECULAR PHYSICS AND HEAT

Although the grasping of principles and not skill in manipulation is strongly emphasized, still the fixing power of laboratory application is recognized. The purpose is to give the student an insight into the real significance of physical things, by putting him in touch with the methods and instruments of modern physical investigation and by carrying him through the process of reasoning by which the present science of physics has been developed. Required of candidates for B. S. Degree in Sophomore year. Elective for A. B., Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, one year of entrance Physics and Mathematics II and IV.

Recitation and lectures two hours and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. SOUND, LIGHT ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM

Continuation of Physics III. Presented in a similar manner and with the same aim.

Required of candidates for B. S. Degree in the Sophomore year. Elective for A. B., Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

Recitation and lectures two hours and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

III. ELECTRICAL MEASUREMENTS

Various methods for exact determination of voltage, resistance, and current; also study and calibration of various types of galvanometers, voltmeters, ammeters, condensers, etc.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

One recitation and three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

BIOLOGY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

I. GENERAL BOTANY

The study will cover a general course in plant life, including lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The local flora is very rich in native and cultivated plants, suitable for study every month of the year. The work will be pursued along these lines (a) Morphological, (b) Physiological, and (c) special Botany, a study of local flora, conditions and the preparation of an herbarium and a knowledge of their economic values.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL BOTANY

Continuation of Biology I.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, second semester.

III. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

A study of invertebrate animal life, the structure, development, classification and distribution.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, first semester.

IV. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

Continuation of Biology III.

A study of vertebrate animal life; the morphology, development, physiology, classification, distribution and economic value. Especial attention is given to human physiology.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, second semester.

FORESTRY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

I. FORESTRY

The study will cover our local national forests, trees, chaparral, herbs conservation of forest cover and of water. The course will deal with rock and soil structure, national forests in general, their purpose, use, protection and management.

Biology I and II are desirable prerequisites.

Elective.

Three hours per week, second semester.

GEOLOGY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

I. GENERAL GEOLOGY

Lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The study will include the salient and economic features of the science, giving a systematic and comprehensive knowledge of the most important teachings of Geology. The course will cover (a) Dynamical, (b) Structural and (c) Historical Geology. Attention will be given to the Petrology and Crystallography of the common rocks and minerals.

Prerequisite, Biology I-IV.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL GEOLOGY

Continuation of Geology I.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period per week, second semester.

CHORAL

Edward C. Hopkins, Director

Elective to all students.

One hour per week, both semesters.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Ashel Cunningham, Professor

Recognizing the value of physical culture and general athletic work, much attention has been given to a suitably equipped gymnasium and athletic field.

The gymnasium is furnished with modern apparatus of the newest and most approved design. It is open to both men and women, who have separate lockers and baths and use the building at different periods during the day.

The course consists of calisthenics, light gymnastics, Swedish and German gymnastics, gymnastic games, heavy gymnastics, athletic games and track and field athletics. In calisthenics special attention is paid to simple, rhythmic movements for the cultivation of grace in form and bearing. Exercises executed with light portable pieces of apparatus, such as wands, dumb-bells and Indian clubs, give opportunity for suitable work in light gymnastics. Such forms of exercise, together with gymnastic games, such as basket ball, hand ball, volley ball and center ball give opportunity for all those who are not fit for the more violent work. Heavy gymnastics are especially valuable in the cultivation of physical carriage, self-possession, quick sense of perception and a rapid and responsive exercise of judgment. Many of these exercises, somewhat modified, may be practiced by the women. The usual forms employed are vaulting horse, vaulting buck, high parallels, horizontal bar, long horse, parallel bars, vaulting bar, flying rings, tumbling and mat exercise. Boxing and similar forms of physical training such as fencing, wrestling, etc., can be had at any time if there are a sufficient number wishing to take the work.

Required of all students.

Two hours per week throughout two years.

College of Fine Arts

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

GENERAL INFORMATION

In accordance with the plan followed in connection with the other departments of the University, provisions have been made for the most thoro and advanced work in the Department of Music.

The line of work in the University course in Music, conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, corresponds with that of some of the European universities.

The elementary work in Piano and other departments will be under competent instructors who will be under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

Realizing the degree to which superior musical proficiency is attainable only in conjunction with the highest cultural development, stress will be laid upon this phase of the student's growth, and special attention will be given to courses in the other departments of the University which will prove of value to students in the Department of Music.

Classes in this department will be organized at the beginning of the college year as indicated in the calendar.

Individual work may be begun at any time by students showing marked musical ability.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Diplomas will be awarded to students showing sufficient musical ability who have completed the required courses. The pupil's work is to be subject to the approval of the Dean.

The Choral Society and Orchestra, under the leadership of the head of the Department of Piano, give opportunity for expression and development of the musical ability of the students of the University.

Careful analysis is made of the general musical taste and ability of the student before enrollment for the University work, and the course of study is planned to suit the individual needs of the student in securing well balanced musicianship and critical judgment along musical lines.

During the Junior and Senior years the candidate for a degree must appear in public at least once a semester, the time and place of such public performances to be advised by the Dean.

Academy

GENERAL INFORMATION

The University authorities have determined, for a few years at least, to maintain an academy department, covering approximately the last two years of the regular high school or academy courses. The work in these classes will be given in so far as possible, by the regular professors in the University.

Students contemplating entering the academy should request the superintendent of the school last attended to forward to the Registrar of the University a certificate showing the work for which credit will be asked. The entrance requirements for this department presuppose that the student has completed the work for the first two years in some accredited high school.

Students expecting to take the entrance examinations should present themselves to the Dean on the dates set for such examinations (see Calendar.)

The system of grading, the regulations as to work and examinations, and all general rules and regulations of the University apply also to the Academy. Upon request, parents of the students in the Academy will be kept informed as to the character of the work being done.

Graduates from the Academy will be granted a diploma showing completion of this work and will be admitted to the University without examination.

To that student graduating from the Academy with the highest average grade of work done in residence of at least one year will be granted a prize in the form of a free tuition in the College of Liberal Arts for one semester, providing such work is taken during the year immediately following that in which said student completed the Academy.

DORMITORIES AND ROOMS

The two halls, the one for men, the other for women, supply accommodations for a limited number of students. Those who cannot be thus provided for, or for any reason prefer to room and board elsewhere may secure a list of approved places upon application to the University. (For rates see Expenses).

The following outline of courses is offered in the Academy and corresponds approximately to those of the third and fourth years of our best high schools.

University of Redlands

HISTORICAL

On the seventh day of December, 1906, the Baptists of Southern California, in Convention assembled in Berean Hall, Los Angeles, resolved to found and foster a high grade, first class Christian college. A committee of twenty-one representative men was appointed to select the location for the college, manage the campaign for a Founding Fund and organize the institution.

The citizens of Redlands made an offer of $100,000 and forty acres of land for the location of the school in their city, on condition that the Baptists of Southern California raise at least $200,000 additional. The proposition was accepted and plans were immediately made for the state canvass. Under the leadership of Doctor Jasper Newton Field, then pastor of the First Baptist Church of Redlands, the canvass was begun on September 1st, 1907.

The campaign met with such a hearty response that at the convention held in Los Angeles in January, 1909, the committee was able to announce the assured success of the movement.

To the forty acres given by Redlands for a campus has since been added twenty-three acres, including the beautiful University Hill, now occupied by the Administration Building and the President's Residence.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

With the $300,000 founding fund and the beginning of the first building the work of actualizing the institution may be said to have commenced.

The University of Redlands was incorporated under that title in 1907.

On September 29th, 1909, less than three years from the time of the inception of the movement, the institution threw open its doors to the public.

In obedience to the expressed wish of the Baptist Convention of Southern California the Board of Trustees chose Dr. Jasper Newton Field, who had so ably conducted the founding fund canvass, as the first President of the University.

The College of Liberal Arts was organized and continued thru the first semester of 1909-10 in the Bible School rooms of the First Baptist Church of Redlands.

In February, 1910, the ample Administration Building was occupied.

From the beginning a College of Fine Arts had been a prominent feature of the University plan. Under the able management of Don Jose M. A. Rodrigues, a noted vocal professor residing in Redlands at the time, a school of Music and Art was founded which soon outgrew the quarters provided, necessitating the use of the building intended as a President's Home, for the proper accommodation of the classes. Even these excellent rooms are inadequate to accommodate audiences at the concerts and recitals that form such an important feature of this work.

It is hoped that in the near future provisions may be made for a special building containing an assembly hall of ample capacity, with a pipe organ and a choir loft; class rooms and a small recital hall.

LOCATION

Redlands, the home of the University, is a beautiful city of 11,000 inhabitants, situated sixty-six miles east of Los Angeles, in the heart of the best orange growing district in the world, and close to the eternal mountains, whose massive strength gives courage, whose grandeur gives inspiration, whose repose gives rest. The city is located at an altitude of about 1400 feet, which gives it as nearly an ideal climate as it is possible to find, sometimes touching the frost point in winter, warm in summer; but, even in the warmest summer months, always having cool and restful nights.

Flowers blossom all the year round and the finest fruits are always in season. The class of people who have made Redlands what it is, coming from all parts of the country, is thoroughly cosmopolitan and is closely in touch with the latest thought and endeavor of the world. Redlands is a church going city, and with this sentiment thus dominant there is no saloon within her borders. In short, Redlands is a city of high moral tone and culture, justly deserving the name that has been given to it, "The Athens of Southern California." Many trains a day, steam and trolley, connect Redlands with Los Angeles and other nearby towns, the trip to Los Angeles taking two and one-half hours, through the orange groves and vineyards of the garden spot of the United States. Redlands can be reached directly via either the Southern Pacific or the Santa Fe railroads or the Pacific Electric. It is also reached by the Salt Lake Route through San Bernardino and Pacific Electric to Redlands.

The location of this place for an institution of higher learning, such as the University of Redlands, presents unusual opportunities for an ideal home life to parents desiring to have their children live at home while pursuing a college course.

CAMPUS

In a beautiful valley under the shadow of the "Everlasting Hills" the campus of the University of Redlands surely has an inspiring setting. Its sixty-three acres, under the skill of a landscape architect, aided by a beneficent climate, has in a short time become a spot of rare beauty. A special, and to many, a unique feature of the campus is a regularly laid out and fruit bearing orange grove of 1900 trees, covering every slope of University Hill. With stately architecture to grace its green sward, winding drives, glowing flowers, and wrapt in the indefinable atmosphere which adds so much romance and charm to our Western land, the place itself will surely inspire with the highest ideals the sons and daughters who will throng its halls of learning.

THE BUILDINGS

ADMINISTRATION

The main structure of the whole University scheme, the Administration Building, was completed in 1910. It is massive and monumental in character, a pure example of classic architecture, of the mixed Ionic order. The exterior is faced with gray granite and with its massive columns and red tile roof harmonizes admirably with its majestic setting of mountain and valley.

The building contains the offices of the President, Dean, Registrar and Treasurer, and at present accommodates the recitation and laboratory work of the College of Liberal Arts, embracing some sixteen recitation rooms, chemical and physical laboratories, lecture rooms, library, society halls; locker rooms, etc. The entire equipment is of the highest order, especial attention being paid to the ventilation and sanitary requirements.

FINE ARTS BUILDING

To the East of the Administration Building, and forming the second of the group of three, proposed for University Hill, stands the President's Residence. This beautiful structure is at present accommodating the classrooms and studios of the College of Fine Arts. Its handsome lines harmonize with those of the Administration Building, and the others on the Campus.

The Vocal, Piano, Violin, and Art Studios, as well as the classrooms, practice rooms, and musical library, are in this structure while the spacious hall provides room for the accommodation of audiences at the semi-monthly and other recitals.

Originally designed as the President's Residence, the kitchens and other conveniences furnish an ideal opportunity for social functions, which are also held in this building when occasion demands.

The building was largely the gift of Mrs. Julia A. Libby of Santa Ana.

BEKINS HALL

Bekins Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bekins, of Los Angeles, was completed and occupied in October, 1910. The building is classic in architecture and absolutely fireproof in construction. It contains rooms for the accommodation of fifty young women, besides parlors, dining hall and kitchen, and a specially equipped laundry. Many of the rooms are connected with private baths. Ample verandas and a roof garden foster out-door life.

REAVIS HALL

Reavis Hall is named in honor of Benjamin H. Reavis, of Orange, Cal., whose generous gifts to the University have more than justified the naming of the young men's dormitory. The hall is a pleasant home-like structure, located in the borders of a beautiful orange grove and will accommodate eighteen students.

GYMNASIUM

At the northeast corner of the Athletic Field stands the gymnasium with a floor space 60 feet by 40 feet and containing apparatus and facilities for all indoor exercises and sports for both men and women. Southwest of the gymnasium are the Athletic Field and Tennis Courts, and arrangements for all sorts of out-door sports and exercises.

ORGANIZATIONS

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

The Associated Student Body is composed of all the students matriculated in the various colleges of the University and the Academy. Its officers are chosen by the student body from their own number. Regular meetings are held each week to deal with matters of general interest to all students.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

A thoroly organized and live Athletic Association, to which every student is expected to belong, is maintained. Each year this association has presented athletic "R's" to those members of the teams who have distinguished themselves.

SOCIETIES AND CLUBS

PI KAPPA CHI

The young ladies of the University maintain the Pi Kappa Chi literary society for literary and social development. The membership is limited, hence coveted. Meetings are held on alternate Thursday afternoons. This society is proving of great pleasure and profit to its members.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

DEBATING COUNCIL

For the purpose of acquiring practice and skill in debating and oratory a body of the young men organized the Debating Council, limited to twenty-five. Intercollegiate debaters and oratorical contestants while not restricted to members of this society, nevertheless find the drill in the society an excellent training for these contests.

PI KAPPA DELTA

The University of Redlands has a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, a forensic honor society organized among colleges of the Middle West in January, 1913. All orators and debaters who represent the institution in intercollegiate contests are eligible to membership and are elected upon application. The organization confers an honorary key which is jewelled to show the achievement in forensics attained by the wearer.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

Branches of the College Departments of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association are doing active and effective work. Each association holds a weekly prayer meeting. Representatives from the societies are sent to the Bible and General Conferences for Colleges. The good effect of these Christian organizations is very marked in the daily life of the student body. Every encouragement and assistance is given these organizations by the faculty.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

The Choral Society is composed of those of the student body who are musically inclined. The society is under the direction of Dean Hubach and is designed to give drill in general chorus work and, by means of talks and lectures, to give the members a knowledge of the historical and cultural value of music. One hour of credit per year is given for satisfactory work in the society.

GERMAN CLUB

In February, 1910, the German Club was organized under the direction of Professor Hill, and meets fortnightly. The club chooses its own officers and has as one of its regulations, "no language but German for one hour." Besides the social feature, the benefits of the club are seen in a better pronunciation and understanding of the German language.

ORCHESTRA

An Orchestra for the study of the best music in this line has been organized this year and already shows signs of becoming more than an ordinary influence in the life of the college. The rehearsals are held each Tuesday evening under the direction of Professor Hopkins, and with Mr. Miner as concert-master the organization is rapidly acquiring a repertoire for public performances.

All students of the Violin and other instruments are required to assist in the Orchestra if necessary.

CONCERT OCTET

A Concert Octet of mixed voices from the ranks of the vocal students makes frequent trips to the nearby cities for mutual benefit and to advertise the University in other communities. Admission to this organization is by competitive examinations under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts. Only the finest of artistic music is rendered by these young people, who have given great pleasure to many by their capable performance.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS

The University of Redlands publishes a quarterly bulletin, one of which is the annual catalog. The other three are devoted to special studies and reports of officers and other matters of importance.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

The Campus, a weekly paper published by the Associated Student Body thru an elected staff, is an exponent of the student life and activities of the University.

COLORS

The official colors of the University of Redlands are Maroon and Silver Gray.

ATHLETICS

The University of Redlands recognizes the value of athletics in the college curriculum. Athletics is the vitalizing force of "College Spirit," and hence of value to college students in general. Athletics when properly coached and controlled, is of great value to the participant, for not only is the body developed, the eye made keener and the judgment quickened, but, if allowed so to do, the broader and finer qualities of mind and of soul, even, find expression and receive impulses and strength. Therefore athletics occupies the usual important place in the schedule.

An athletic park has recently been enclosed and a track has been put in fine condition. The track is a circular, four lap track with a two hundred and twenty yard straight away in connection.

College of Liberal Arts

ADMISSION

Every student, unless he brings a certificate of proficiency from an accredited school, shall before entering any class in the collegiate department, be examined upon the following subjects required for entrance.

In the College of Liberal Arts the University of Redlands offers courses leading to the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees with the following

FIXED ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

(1.) For entrance to the A. B., a student must present six units in English and Foreign Language, two of these must be in English and two in Foreign Language and the other two may be in English or in Foreign Language or in both.

Students wishing to major in Ancient Languages in the College must offer four entrance units in Latin.

(2.) Any student having fifteen accepted entrance units, but only two of these in Mathematics, namely, Elementary Algebra, one unit, and Plane Geometry, one unit, will be entered as a college student, without condition, but will be required to take Mathematics C, Intermediate Algebra, four hours, and will be given three hours college credit for the completion of the course. However, this shall not reduce the total amount of work in Mathematics required for graduation.

(3.) A student offering a laboratory science other than Physics or Chemistry must elect one of these sciences in the college.

(4.) A student presenting only two of these three units, but an extra unit in either Mathematics or Foreign Language, will be entered without condition, but must elect the equivalent science course in the College, receiving therefor seven hours of college credit for the year's work. This shall not reduce the total amount of work required in these subjects for graduation.

In the list of subjects enumerated above the term unit is employed to signify the amount of preparatory work done in a given subject during a school year, the class meeting at least four hours of sixty minutes each per week.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

ADMISSION BY CERTIFICATE

Graduates of approved high schools or academies will be given credit for any of the subjects listed below in which they are recommended. Blanks for such recommendation will be furnished on application to the Registrar and it is expected that all applicants for admission, without examination, will use them.

In the list of admission subjects enumerated below the term unit is understood to represent five recitations per week of fort-five minutes each, or four recitations per week of sixty minutes each thruout one school year. A detailed description of the essential subjects may be found in the printed lists of the American College entrance requirements.

Half units will be accepted only when presented in addition to a whole unit in the same subject or in closely allied subjects, such as economics and history, except in industrial arts, agriculture, music, etc., as indicated above.

One year of a foreign language will not be accepted until supplemented by an additional year of the same language in the Academy of the University of Redlands.

Students who can present thirteen units in the subjects required for entrance for any degree will be classified conditionally as Freshmen. But no student will be advanced to Junior standing until all entrance subjects and all the requirements of the Freshmen and Sophomore years are completely fulfilled.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

ADVANCED STANDING

If a student applying for entrance to the University can present more than the fifteen units required he may be granted advanced standing in the extra studies presented, upon the recommendation of the head of the department in which such advanced credits are sought, the head of the department reserving the right to examine the applicant before making the recommendation.

Credit without examinations for work done in other institutions will be granted only upon receipt of a satisfactory certificate mailed to the University of Redlands by the proper official of the institution in which the work was done.

A student from another institution of equal scholastic rank may be admitted to advanced standing in the University upon presentation to the committee having charge of credits satisfactory evidence of having completed the work claimed, together with a certificate of honorable dismissal.

Students failing to satisfy any of the above requirements for admission may be received as "conditioned," but such conditions must be removed before said students are admitted to the Junior Class.

MATRICULATION AND REGISTRATION

On or before the designated registration days in September and February, each student must obtain from the Dean a registration blank which will indicate the courses selected for the semester. The student must then visit each professor, with whom he has selected work, and get his signature to the registration blank issued by the Dean. Upon presentation of this statement of courses to the Registrar, he will issue to the student an enrollment card and a statement to the Treasurer setting forth the number and nature of the courses for which the student has registered. The student, within one week after registration day or at once, in case of late registration, must obtain from the Treasurer a card of admission to classes.

Students are urged to register on the designated registration days. Absences from classes are counted from the day on which instruction begins, and these absences incur the penalty stated elsewhere in the catalog.

Students enrolled for the first semester and registering for the second semester will be expected to register between Monday, January 11th and Friday, January 29th. An extra fee of one dollar ($1.00) will be charged such students whose registration is not complete on or before January 29th.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AND REGULATIONS

Candidates for degrees will be required to recognize the sequence of courses in selecting their work, unless excused by the Faculty.

Persons not candidates for any degree may be admitted to the University as special students, provided they are of mature age and give to the Faculty satisfactory evidence that they are properly qualified to do work creditably and with profit.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Special students may select their studies without reference to the sequence of courses, but otherwise are subject to the general regulations governing the student body. Such students may at any time become candidates for degrees by conforming to the regular requirements.

No student who has registered for regular work can change his status to that of a special without permission of the Faculty.

After registration no student will be permitted to drop a study, without the consent of the Dean, within two weeks after the beginning of the semester, nor after that time without the consent of the Faculty.

A student absenting himself from more than one-fifth of the recitations in any subject during a given semester shall be barred from examination and credit in said subject unless excused by the Faculty.

A student having three unexcused absences in any one subject is debarred from all college work until he has made satisfactory arrangement with the instructor under whom the absences were made. Two unexcused tardinesses are counted as one absence.

A student receiving a "condition," that is, a grade between 50 per cent. and 59 per cent., inclusive, in any course, may not receive credit in that course until he shall have passed another examination to the satisfaction of the instructor. Such examination must be taken before the close of the semester first following that in which the condition was received. Otherwise the student shall be required to take the course again in regular manner when next presented.

A student withdrawing from the University before the work of any semester has been completed shall thereby forfeit all credits for that semester; but at the discretion of the instructor such student, upon returning to college, may resume a subject at the point dropped and carry it to completion.

The regular work of the student calls for fifteen hours in the class room each week. Without special permission of the Faculty no student shall take less than twelve hours nor more than eighteen.

Each student must take a final examination before receiving credit in any course, except that in the second semester a student ready to receive a degree or diploma shall not be required to take an examination in those courses in which his daily grade for that semester is 90 per cent. or above.

A fee of two dollars ($2.00) will be charged for each extra or special examination in any department of the University. Said fee must be paid in advance to the Treasurer and receipt for the same presented to the instructor by the applicant before he will be permitted to take the examination.

HONORS

Honors, as follows, will be awarded at graduation for excellence in scholarship:

"Honorable Mention" will be made of those students whose work for the entire course, just completed, whether in Academy, College of Liberal Arts, or College of Fine Arts, averages "A," and who have not fallen below the grade of "B" in any study.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Students receiving honorable mention shall have their names enrolled upon the University records as having won such honors, and the fact shall be noted upon their diplomas, announced upon Commencement Day and published in the next annual catalog.

PRIZES

The following prizes have been offered to the students of the University for the year 1914-15 to be awarded on Commencement Day:

1. For the best oration delivered by a member of the Junior or Senior Class at their annual contest, a gold medal or $25 in cash is offered by the President of the Board of Trustees of the University, Mr. Mattison B. Jones of Los Angeles.

2. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained during the second semester by a member of the Junior Class, a prize of $10 given by Prof. J. W. Kyle.

3. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained by a member of the Sophomore Class, a prize of $10, given by Mr. Paul Moore, manager of The Redlands Daily Facts.

44. For the highest average grade in all studies, attained by a member of the Freshman Class, a prize of $10, given by Mrs. Jane Glasgow.

SCHOLARSHIPS

A number of scholarships have been endowed by friends of the University, the income derived from such funds being devoted to defraying the tuition fees in the Liberal Arts College of those students to whom the scholarships are awarded.

$1500 endows a perpetual scholarship. Where the donors do not themselves award the scholarships, it is left with the authorities of the University to assign them. Conduct and scholarship are taken into consideration in the continued assignments of scholarships to matriculated students.

Particulars regarding scholarships may be obtained by addressing the University of Redlands.

ACCREDITING

The work of the University of Redlands will be accepted by the University of California or Leland Stanford, Jr., University for admission to Sophomore, Junior, Senior or Graduate standing.

STUDENT HELP

A number of students are employed in the buildings and about the Campus to assist them in defraying a part of their expenses.

Often citizens of Redlands apply to the University for student help in exchange for room rent and board, or for other compensation. The University is glad to be able to thus help students and for that purpose keeps on file a list of such applications.

Inquiries regarding this matter should be addressed to the University of Redlands.

DORMITORIES, ROOM AND BOARD

In the Bekins Hall for women and the Reavis Hall for men accommodation is provided for a limited number of students. Thoroly competent matrons in charge of the dormitories give assurance of adequate control. In both the halls it will be the purpose of the administration to approximate the home life as closely as possible.

Students unable to secure accommodations in the halls or desirous of securing rooms and board elsewhere, may obtain from the University of Redlands a list of approved locations. Students will be permitted to room only in places approved by the Faculty.

For cost of rooms and board see Expenses.

EXPENSES

It is believed that the expenses at this institution are as low as is consistent with the high character of the work done. The following schedule will serve to indicate the principal items:

Tuition per semester, payable in advance:

College of Liberal Arts	$48.00

Matriculation Fee:

College of Liberal Arts, and Fine Arts $	5.00
Academy	3.00

Registration Fee per semester:

College of Liberal Arts	$ 2.00
Academy	1.50

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Laboratory Fees:

College Chemistry, for each course, per semester$ 8.00

Academy Chemistry for each course per semester$ 5.00

College course in Biology, per semester$ 1.00

A deposit of five dollars ($5.00) is required in Chemistry to cover breakage. This deposit, less cost of breakage, is refunded at the end of the year.

College Physics, for each course, per semester$ 5.00

Academy Physics, for each course, per semester$ 3.00

No breakage deposit is required in Physics, but an account is kept of all breakages and a charge is made therefor.

Students carrying not more than five hours of work will be charged one-third of the regular tuition fee; those carrying from six to ten hours inclusive, will be charged two-thirds of the regular fee, and those carrying more than ten hours will pay the full fee.

Students preparing for the ministry and children of ministers and missionaries will be granted a discount of 50 per cent. in tuition fees for regular work in the Academy and the College of Liberal Arts.

Special attention is called to the fact that the charge for tuition includes gymnasium, library, graduation and all incidental fees other than the matriculation or registration fees, and those connected with the laboratory work.

No student may attend classes for more than one week after the regular registration day without having made satisfactory arrangements with the treasurer concerning all monies due the University.

DORMITORY EXPENSES

The larger number of the dormitory rooms are arranged for two in a room, being furnished with two beds and in some of the rooms two closets.

The beds are single and provided with mattresses 6 ft. 2 in., by 3 ft., and pillows 23 by 30 inches.

Each student is expected to furnish bed covers, linen and towels.

Rooms and Board at the Dormitories:

- Two in a room, per month$27 each
- Two in room with private bath, per month $30 each

When paid by the semester in advance, $105 and $115 respectively. Of this sum $20 per month is reckoned for the board and the balance as room rental. In case a student desires to room alone in one of the double rooms, a half more will be added to the room rental.

The dormitories will be closed during the Christmas and the spring vacations unless a number of students desire to remain, in which case those students paying the semester rate will be charged an additional fee for their accommodations during these periods.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

The necessary expenses, including room, board, tuition, books and laundry, will average about $350 or $375 for the year.

Rooms in the dormitory may be reserved at any time for 1915-16 by a deposit of five dollars with the University. This deposit will be deducted from the charges of the first month.

LIBRARY

The library of 7400 volumes and several thousand unbound magazines and pamphlets, contains especially well selected works on all subjects included in the curriculum. This number includes about 3000 volumes received as a permanent loan from California College, Oakland, Cal.

Many valuable books and sets have been given by generous friends of the University.

Moreover, through the courtesy of the A. K. Smiley Public Library of Redlands, with 27,427 volumes, the University Library is a depository, thruout the college year, for such books as the different departments may from time to time require.

A music library, largely a loan from the private library of Dean Hubach, is maintained in the Fine Arts building.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student shall be permitted to graduate from the University who has not credit for at least 120 hours and two years of physical education and who has not taken at least one year of the regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

English	9 hours
Mathematics	12 hours

In addition to the above requirements for the A. B. degree the student must choose at least eighteen hours from one of the following departments: Ancient Languages, English, History, Political and Social Science, Philosophy or a Modern Language. If in a Modern Language the eighteen hours must be in addition to Courses I and II in these departments. Greek A, B, C, and D (see Academy Courses) cannot be counted as a part of the required eighteen hours in Ancient Languages.

(2) Students who offer fewer than four entrance units in English, will be required to take twelve college hours in that subject.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

(3.) Students who offer fewer than two entrance units in History, will be required to take ten college hours in that subject.

GRADUATE WORK

The secondary degrees of A. M. and M. S. will be awarded for one year's residence work in addition to that required for the degrees of A. B. or B. S. A candidate for the Master's degree shall select a major department in which he must do two-thirds of his work under the direction of the professor in charge of that department. The remaining one-third of the work required shall be taken in some other department or in not more than two others. Upon the completion of the year's study the candidate must pass an examination upon the subjects taken, such examination to be written, or written and oral, conducted by the instructors in the departments in which the candidate has taken his work and a visiting professor chosen from some other department by the President.

In addition to the resident work and the examination, as above indicated, the candidate shall prepare a thesis representing the results of original investigation on some subject suggested by the professor in charge of the major department. This thesis must conform to definite regulations, show independent investigation and be clothed in such language as will demonstrate the candidate's ability to properly handle such material.

The study will cover a general course in plant life, including lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The local flora is very rich in native and cultivated plants, suitable for study every month of the year. The work will be pursued along these lines (a) Morphological (especially the histological phase), (b) Physiological, and (c) special Botany, a study of local flora, conditions of plant development, and a knowledge of the economic value of California plants.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL BOTANY

Continuation of Biology I.

Elective

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

III. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

A study of invertebrate animal life, the structure, development, classification and distribution.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

IV. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

Continuation of Biology III.

A study of vertebrate animal life; the morphology, development, physiology, classification, distribution and economic value. Especial attention is given to human physiology.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

CHEMISTRY

S. Guy Jones, Professor

I. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in general and theoretical chemistry, accompanied by a laboratory course in qualitative analysis. Determination of the composition of natural and commercial products.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry I.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

III. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

General methods of Gravimetric Analysis. Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Laboratory work three periods per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

IV. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry III. Gravimetric and Volumetric Analysis.

Laboratory work three periods per week, second semester.

V. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

A study of the compounds of Carbon.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VI. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry V.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

VII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in quantitative manipulations and determinations. The aim of the course is to obtain skill in quantitative manipulation and a knowledge of methods which will enable the student to quickly and easily become proficient in any of the several lines of quantitative analytical Chemistry.

Prerequisite, Chemistry 1-IV.

Four laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VIII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry VII.

Four laboratory periods per week, second semester.

IX. INORGANIC PREPARATIONS

Study of the accepted methods of preparing the principal inorganic compounds.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

X. BLOW-PIPE ANALYSIS

A laboratory course in qualitative blow-pipe analysis.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Three laboratory periods per week, second semester.

ENGINEERING

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

I. MECHANICAL DRAWING

Use and care of drawing instruments, free-hand and mechanical lettering, exercises in projection and simple drawing.

Prerequisite, Mathematics A and B.

Two drawing periods per week, first semester.

II. CONTINUATION OF I.

Drawing accurately to scale plans, elevations, and sections from student's own measurements and free-hand sketches of simple machine parts; plan and elevation of some building measured by students.

Prerequisite Engineering I.

Two drawing periods per week, second semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

III. SURVEYING

The use, care and adjustment of the Surveyor's instruments. Field work; chain and tape surveying, transit surveys, leveling, curves, etc.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II and III.

One recitation and two field periods per week, second semester.

IV. GRAPHIC STATISTICS

A study of methods of representing forces graphically and the application of the same in the determination of stress in structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Physics I and Mathematics I-III.

Recitation two hours and one drawing period per week, second semester.

V. APPLIED MECHANICS

A study of mechanics of materials including elastic and ultimate strength, and elastic ultimate deformations, cases of simple stress, theory of beams, columns, and shafts; also a study of the principles of reinforced concrete and their application in various structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Physics I and Mathematics I-VI.

Three recitations and one laboratory period per week, first semester.

ENGLISH

Egbert Ray Nichols, Professor

Mary Louise Todd, Associate Professor

From six to twelve units of English are required of A. B., and nine of B. S. students, the first six of which must be courses I. and II., which are prerequisites to all others except VII., XXI., and XXIII., and XXIV. English VII is required of all Freshmen presenting less than four years of high school English for college entrance. Eighteen hours in addition to the six in courses I. and II. are required of students majoring in English.

The aim of the English department is threefold: (1) to train the students in the art of self-expression or English Composition, written and oral; (2) to give the student definite knowledge of the greater writers of English literature; and, (3) to enable the student to appreciate and estimate in a measure by the higher standards of criticism the value and wealth of English literature.

The work of the department has been grouped under three heads. This division of the department is the logical and natural one of (A) Courses in Composition, (B) Courses in English Literature, and (C) Courses in Public Speaking. The courses in Divisions A and C are given by Professor Nichols. Miss Todd assists with the courses in Division B.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY

Victor L. Duke, Professor

I. SOLID GEOMETRY

The fundamental propositions of Solid and Spherical Geometry with many original exercises applied especially to the mensuration of solids.

Prerequisite, one unit of Algebra and one unit of Plane Geometry.

Three hours per week, first semester.

(This course is parallel to Mathematics D, Academy and for the year 1915-16 they will be combined.)

II. TRIGONOMETRY

Analytic Trigonometry, the proof and applications of the fundamental relations among the functions of angles. Practical Trigonometry, the solution of the plane triangle, measurements of heights and distances, sufficient of Spherical Trigonometry to determine the spherical triangle.

Prerequisite, Algebra, one and one-half units; Plane Geometry, one unit.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. COLLEGE ALGEBRA

Rapid review of the Theory of Quadratic Equations. Permutations and Combinations, Series, Logarithms, Determinants and elementary Theory of Equations.

Prerequisite one and one-half units of Algebra and one unit of Plane Geometry.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. ELEMENTS OF ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

A study of the point, the line and the circle, with some of the more important and elementary theorems on the conic sections.

Prerequisite, same as for Math. III plus Math. II.

Three hours per week, second semester.

V. DIFFERENTIAL CALCULUS

Fundamental formulae and processes of differentiation and an insight into the powerful factor which this subject is in modern scientific research.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-IV.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VI. INTEGRAL CALCULUS

A study of the processes of integration and their application to physical and mechanical problems.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-V.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

A study of the heavenly bodies, their constitution, laws of motion, physical properties and the processes by which man discovers these facts.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

Continuation of Mathematics VII.

Three hours per week, second semester.

IX. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

A more detailed study of the properties of the conic section; some insight into the study of higher plane curves. Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Two hours per week, first semester.

X. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

Continuation of Mathematics IX.

Two hours per week, second semester.

XI. ADVANCED THEORIES OF EQUATIONS

Equations of higher degrees symmetric functions of roots, determinants of higher orders.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-VI.

Two hours per week, first semester.

College of Fine Arts

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC AND ART

GENERAL INFORMATION

In accordance with the plan followed in connection with the other departments of the University, provisions have been made for the most thorough and advanced work in the Department of Music and Art.

The line of work in the University course in Music, conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, corresponds with that of some of the European Universities.

Preparatory, or Elementary work has also been provided to accommodate those who have not the proper number of entrance requirements for registration in the College work in Music. Saturday classes for children and young people in both Piano and Art provide a valuable opportunity for the cultivation of talent in the early years, under the guidance of competent instructors, who are under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

Realizing the extent to which superior musical efficiency is attainable only in conjunction with the highest cultural development, stress is laid upon this phase of the student's growth; and special attention is directed to such courses in the other departments of the University which will prove of value in this respect to Music and Art students.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

A Choral Society and an Orchestra, under the direction of the Heads of the Departments of Voice and Piano give opportunity for expression and development of musical ability to the students of the entire University.

Classes in the Department of Music will be organized at the beginning of the college year, as indicated in the Calendar.

Special lessons may be begun at any time by students showing marked musical ability.

Piano practice may be arranged for at the Fine Arts Building or Bekins Hall.

DEPARTMENTS, DEGREES AND REQUIREMENTS

DEPARTMENTS

The College of Fine Arts is made up of the following Departments:

- (1) Music.
- (2) Drawing and Painting.

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES

A Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, will be awarded to those who complete the required courses.

A Special Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music will be awarded to those who complete the required courses with high standing in all subjects as well as in public performance.

A Certificate of work completed will be granted to all who wish credit upon application to the Registrar.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

There are two methods of admission to the College of Fine Arts, (1) by Examination, (2) by Certificate.

By Examination:—All students who cannot present certificates from accredited schools will be examined in the subjects required for entrance.

By Certificate:—Students will be admitted without examination on certificates from accredited High Schools or other preparatory schools, signed by the proper school officer. (For details of units required, see page thirty.

In Piano and Organ:—Applicants are required in addition to the above to have completed the courses set forth in the Preparatory section of this catalog.

In Voice and Violin:—Applicants for the regular course in Voice, or Violin must be able to play Piano accompaniments of moderate difficulty. Any deficiencies in this respect must be made up before graduation.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student will be permitted to graduate from the Department of Music, College of Fine Arts, who has not credit for at least 80 full units, and who has not taken at least one year of regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

ART

Students for the Art department will be admitted at any time, but not for less than one semester except by special arrangement with the Dean.

Instruction in all Art classes is individual. Advancement of each student depends upon the degree of proficiency attained.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

ARTISTS' COURSE—COLLEGIATE COURSE

These courses are identical in outline, but students in the artists' course are expected to do a larger amount of work, to maintain the highest grade in all musical subjects, and give a graduating recital. This is not required in the collegiate course, which is intended for those who wish to fit themselves for teachers or take music for personal culture rather than to become public performers. After the second year students are graded in the two courses according to their standing. Advanced students in French, German and Italian are allowed to substitute advanced courses for those offered below.

Students who are backward in technical development at the end of the Sophomore year must make up the deficiency by special work in Piano before they receive Junior standing.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

CONCERTS AND RECITALS

Concerts are frequently given in Recital Hall, by the Faculty and advanced students.

Concert courses which are arranged for at special rates by the Spinet Club of Redlands, afford students an opportunity to hear many noted musicians.

Recitals are given semi-monthly by the students of the College of Fine Arts at which works studied in the class room are performed before audiences of fellow students and their friends. All Fine Arts students are required to attend these concerts and recitals, and to take part in programs at least twice a year and to present, each semester, a record of attendance. These semi-public appearances are of great assistance in enabling the student to acquire the ease and self-possession so essential to a successful public performance.

At the close of the College year, during Commencement Week, the Anniversary Recital of the College of Fine Arts, Department of Music is held; at which the students doing the best work in performance at the above-mentioned recitals will be heard.

Preparatory Department

GENERAL INFORMATION

The University authorities have determined, for a few years at least, to maintain a preparatory department, covering approximately the last two years of the regular high school or academy courses. The work in these classes will be given in so far as possible, by the regular professors in the University.

Students contemplating entering the academy should request the superintendent of the school last attended to forward to the Registrar of the University a certificate showing the work for which credit will be asked. The entrance requirements for this department presuppose that the student has completed the work for the first two years in some accredited high school.

Students expecting to take the entrance examinations should present themselves to the Dean on the dates set for such examinations (see Calendar.)

The system of grading, the regulations as to work and examinations, and all general rules and regulations of the University apply also to the Academy. Upon request, parents of the students in the Academy will be kept informed as to the character of the work being done.

Graduates from the Academy will be granted a diploma showing completion of this work and will be admitted to the University without examination.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

To that student graduating from the Academy with the highest average grade of work done in residence of at least one year will be granted a prize in the form of a free tuition in the College of Liberal Arts for one semester, providing such work is taken during the year immediately following that in which said student completed the Academy.

DORMITORIES AND ROOMS

The two halls, the one for men, the other for women, supply accommodations for a limited number of students. Those who cannot be thus provided for, or for any reason prefer to room and board elsewhere may secure a list of approved places upon application to the University. (For rates see Expenses).

The following outline of courses is offered in the Academy and corresponds approximately to those of the third and fourth years of our best high schols.

HISTORICAL

On the seventh day of December, 1906, the Baptists of Southern California, in Convention assembled in Berean Hall, Los Angeles, resolved to found and foster a high grade Christian college. A committee of twenty-one representative men was appointed to select the location for the college, manage the campaign for a Founding Fund and organize the institution.

The citizens of Redlands made an offer of $100,000 and forty acres of land for the location of the school in their city, on condition that the Baptists of Southern California raise at least $200,000 additional. The proposition was accepted and plans were immediately made for the state canvass. Under the leadership of Doctor Jasper Newton Field, then pastor of the First Baptist Church of Redlands, the canvass was begun on September 1st, 1907.

The campaign met with such a hearty response that at the convention held in Los Angeles in January, 1909, the committee was able to announce the assured success of the movement.

To the forty acres given by Redlands for a campus has since been added twenty-three acres, including the beautiful University Hill, now occupied by the Administration Building and the Fine Arts Building.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

With the $300,000 founding fund and the beginning of the first building the work of actualizing the institution may be said to have commenced.

The University of Redlands was incorporated under that title in 1907.

On September 29th, 1909, less than three years from the time of the inception of the movement, the institution threw open its doors to the public.

The College of Liberal Arts was organized and continued thru the first semester of 1909-10 in the Bible School rooms of the First Baptist Church of Redlands.

In February, 1910, the ample Administration Building was occupied.

From the beginning a College of Fine Arts has been a prominent feature of the plans for the University. This work for the first year, 1909-10, was largely carried on at the private studios of the professors and instructors. From 1910 to 1914 the work of the Fine Arts College was housed in Bekins Hall. Increasing enrollment and the necessity of using the rooms at Bekins Hall for dormitory purposes necessitated the move to the present Fine Arts Building, which stands on University Hill and to the east of the Administration Building.

LOCATION

Redlands, the home of the University, is a beautiful city of 11,000 inhabitants, situated sixty-six miles east of Los Angeles, in the heart of the best orange growing district in the world, and close to the eternal mountains, whose massive strength gives courage, whose grandeur gives inspiration, whose repose gives rest. The city is located at an altitude of about 1400 feet, which gives it as nearly an ideal climate as it is possible to find, sometimes touching the frost point in winter, warm in summer; but, even in the warmest summer months, always having cool and restful nights.

Flowers blossom all the year round and the finest fruits are always in season. The class of people who have made Redlands what it is, coming from all parts of the country, is thoroly cosmopolitan and is closely in touch with the latest thought and endeavor of the world. Redlands is a church going city, and with this sentiment thus dominant there is no saloon within her borders. In short, Redlands is a city of high moral tone and culture, justly deserving the name that has been given to it, "The Athens of Southern California." Many trains a day, steam and trolley, connect Redlands with Los Angeles and other nearby towns, the trip to Los Angeles taking two and one-half hours, thru the orange groves and vineyards of the garden spot of the United States. Redlands can be reached directly via either the Southern Pacific or the Santa Fe railroads or the Pacific Electric. It is also reached by the Salt Lake Route thru San Bernardino and Pacific Electric to Redlands.

The location of this place for an institution of higher learning, such as the University of Redlands, presents unusual opportunities for an ideal home life to parents desiring to have their children live at home while pursuing a college course.

CAMPUS

In a beautiful valley under the shadow of the "Everlasting Hills" the campus of the University of Redlands surely has an inspiring setting. Its sixty-three acres, under the skill of a landscape architect, aided by a beneficent climate, has in a short time become a spot of rare beauty. A special, and to many, a unique feature of the campus is a regularly laid out and fruit bearing orange grove of 1900 trees, covering every slope of University Hill. With stately architecture to grace its green sward, winding drives, glowing flowers, and wrapt in the indefinable atmosphere which adds so much romance and charm to our Western land, the place itself will surely inspire with the highest ideals the sons and daughters who will throng its halls of learning.

THE BUILDINGS

ADMINISTRATION

The main structure of the whole University scheme, the Administration Building, was completed in 1910. It is massive and monumental in character, a pure example of classic architecture, of the mixed Ionic order. The exterior is faced with gray granite and with its massive columns and red tile roof harmonizes admirably with its majestic setting of mountain and valley.

The building contains the offices of the President, Registrar and Treasurer, and at present accommodates the recitation and laboratory work of the College of Liberal Arts, embracing some sixteen recitation rooms, chemical and physical laboratories, lecture rooms, library, society halls; locker rooms, etc. The entire equipment is of the highest order, especial attention being paid to the ventilation and sanitary requirements.

FINE ARTS BUILDING

To the east of the Administration Building and forming the second of the group of three, proposed for University Hill, stands the Fine Arts Building. Its handsome lines harmonize with those of the Administration Building, and the others on the campus.

The Vocal, Piano, Violin, and Art Studios, as well as the classrooms, practice rooms, and musical library, are in this structure while the spacious hall provides room for the accommodation of audiences at the semi-monthly and other recitals.

The building was largely the gift of Mrs. Julia A. Libby of Santa Ana.

BEKINS HALL

Bekins Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bekins, of Los Angeles, was completed and occupied in October, 1910. The building is classic in architecture and absolutely fireproof in construction. It contains rooms for the accommodation of fifty young women, besides parlors, dining hall and kitchen, and a specially equipped laundry. Many of the rooms are connected with private baths. Ample verandas and a roof garden foster out-door life.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

REAVIS HALL

Reavis Hall is named in honor of the late Benjamin H. Reavis, of Orange, Cal., whose generous gifts to the University have more than justified the naming of the young men's dormitory. The hall is a pleasant home-like structure, located in the borders of a beautiful orange grove and will accommodate eighteen students.

MEN'S GYMNASIUM

At the northeast corner of the Athletic Field stands the gymnasium for men with a floor space 60 feet by 40 feet and containing apparatus and facilities for all indoor exercises and sports for men. Southwest of the gymnasium are the Athletic Field and Tennis Courts, and arrangements for all sorts of out-door sports and exercises.

WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM

Just south of the Fine Arts Building stands the gymnasium for women. The building contains dressing rooms, sanitary showers and a gymnasium floor space 32 by 60 feet. The building is provided with a complete equipment for calisthenics and light gymnastics as well as for basket ball, volley and indoor baseball.

ORGANIZATIONS

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

The Associated Student Body is composed of all the students matriculated in the various colleges of the University and the Academy. Its officers are chosen by the student body from their own number. Regular meetings are held each week to deal with matters of general interest to all students.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

PI KAPPA CHI

One of the literary societies maintained by the young ladies of the University is known as Pi Kappa Chi, and was organized during the opening year of the University, 1909-10.

This society has for its aims both literary and social development.

The meetings are held on alternate Thursday afternoons and have proven of great pleasure and profit to the members.

ATHENA CLUB

The Athena Club was organized by young women of the University in 1915. This club carries on active work under the following departments, whose titles indicate the objects of the organization:—Literary, Civics, Dramatics, Music and Home Economics.

Every member is required to choose and work in one of these departments.

Mrs. E. R. Nichols is the Patroness and gives special attention to the dramatic department for which she is especially fitted.

The benefits of organized work of this kind among the young ladies is readily recognized.

PI KAPPA DELTA

The University of Redlands has a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, a forensic honor society organized among colleges of the Middle West in January, 1913. All orators and debaters who represent the institution in intercollegiate contests are eligible to membership and are elected upon application. The organization confers an honorary key which is jewelled to show the achievement in forensics attained by the wearer.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

Branches of the College Departments of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association are doing active and effective work. Each association holds a weekly prayer meeting. Representatives from the societies are sent to the Bible and General Conferences for Colleges. The good effect of these Christian organizations is very marked in the daily life of the student body. Every encouragement and assistance is given these organizations by the faculty.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

The Choral Society is composed of those of the student body who are musically inclined. The society is under the direction of Dean Hubach and is designed to give drill in general chorus work and, by means of talks and lectures, to give the members a knowledge of the historical and cultural value of music. One hour of credit per year is given for satisfactory work in the society.

GERMAN CLUB

In February, 1910, the German Club was organized under the direction of Professor Hill, and meets fortnightly. The club chooses its own officers and has as one of its regulations, "no language but German for one hour." Besides the social feature, the benefits of the club are seen in a better pronunciation and understanding of the German language.

CONCERT OCTET

A Concert Octet of mixed voices from the ranks of the vocal students makes frequent trips to the nearby cities for mutual benefit and to advertise the University in other communities. Admission to this organization is by competitive examinations under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts. Only the finest of artistic music is rendered by these young people, who have given great pleasure to many by their capable performances.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS

The University of Redlands publishes a quarterly bulletin, one of which is the annual catalog. The other three are devoted to special studies and reports of officers and other matters of importance.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

The Campus, a weekly paper published by the Associated Student Body thru an elected staff, is an exponent of the student life and activities of the University.

LA LETRA

La Letra, The University Annual, is published by a special staff chosen by the student body and is devoted to the features of the University life for the year.

The Annual comes from the press about June First of each year and is eagerly anticipated by all those connected with the University.

COLORS

The official colors of the University of Redlands are Maroon and Silver Gray.

ATHLETICS

The University of Redlands recognizes the value of athletics in the college curriculum. Athletics is the vitalizing force of "College Spirit," and hence of value to college students in general. Athletics when properly coached and controlled, is of great value to the participant, for not only is the body developed, the eye made keener and the judgment quickened, but, if allowed so to do, the broader and finer qualities of mind and of soul, even, find expression and receive impulses and strength. Therefore athletics occupies the usual important place in the schedule.

The athletic park is enclosed and contains a 220 yard straight-away and a circular four lap track, both in excellent condition. Inside the circular track the football and baseball fields are laid out.

College of Liberal Arts

ADMISSION

Every student, unless he brings a certificate of proficiency from an accredited school, shall before entering any class in the collegiate department, be examined upon the following subjects required for entrance:

In the College of Liberal Arts the University of Redlands offers courses leading to the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees with the following

FIXED ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

LEADING TO BACHELOR OF ARTS

(1) English	2—4	units
(2) Mathematics	2½	units

From one Language

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

(1.) For entrance to the A. B., a student must present six units in English and Foreign Language, two of these must be in English and two in Foreign Language and the other two may be in English or in Foreign Language or in both.

Students wishing to major in Ancient Languages in the College must offer four entrance units in Latin.

(2.) Any student having fifteen accepted entrance units, but only two of these in Mathematics, namely, Elementary Algebra, one unit, and Plane Geometry, one unit, will be entered as a college student, without condition, but will be required to take Mathematics C, Intermediate Algebra, four hours, and will be given three hours college credit for the completion of the course. However, this shall not reduce the total amount of work in Mathematics required for graduation.

(3.) A student offering a laboratory science other than Physics or Chemistry must elect one of these sciences in the college.

(4.) A student presenting only two of these three units, but an extra unit in either Mathematics or Foreign Language, will be entered without condition, but must elect the equivalent science course in the College, receiving therefor seven hours of college credit for the year's work. This shall not reduce the total amount of work required in these subjects for graduation.

In the list of subjects enumerated above the term unit is employed to signify the amount of preparatory work done in a given subject during a school year, the class meeting at least four hours of sixty minutes each week.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

ADMISSION BY CERTIFICATE

Graduates of approved high schools or academies will be given credit for any of the subjects listed below in which they are recommended. Blanks for such recommendation will be furnished on application to the University and it is expected that all applicants for admission, without examination, will use them.

In the list of admission subjects enumerated below the term unit is understood to represent five recitations per week of forty-five minutes each, or four recitations per week of sixty minutes each thruout one school year. A detailed description of the essential subjects may be found in the printed lists of the American College entrance requirements.

Half units will be accepted only when presented in addition to a whole unit in the same subject or in closely allied subjects, such as economics and history, except in industrial arts, agriculture, music, etc., as indicated above.

One year of a foreign language will not be accepted until supplemented by an additional year of the same language in the Academy of the University of Redlands.

Students who can present thirteen units in the subjects required for entrance for any degree will be classified conditionally as Freshmen. But no student will be advanced to Junior standing until all entrance subjects and all the requirements of the Freshmen and Sophomore years are completely fulfilled.

ADVANCED STANDING

If a student applying for entrance to the University can present more than the fifteen units required he may be granted advanced standing in the extra studies presented, upon the recommendation of the head of the department in which such advanced credits are sought, the head of the department reserving the right to examine the applicant before making the recommendation.

Credit without examinations for work done in other institutions will be granted only upon receipt of a satisfactory certificate mailed to the University of Redlands by the proper official of the institution in which the work was done.

A student from another institution of equal scholastic rank may be admitted to advanced standing in the University upon presentation to the committee having charge of credits satisfactory evidence of having completed the work claimed, together with a certificate of honorable dismissal.

Students failing to satisfy any of the above requirements for admission may be received as "conditioned," but such conditions must be removed before said students are admitted to the Junior Class.

MATRICULATION AND REGISTRATION

Students are urged to register on the designated registration days. Absences from classes are counted from the day on which instruction begins. The student, within one week after registration day or at once, in case of late registration, must obtain from the Treasurer a card of admission to classes.

Students enrolled for the first semester and registering for the second semester will be expected to register between Friday, January 3rd and Saturday, January 24th. An extra fee of one dollar ($1.00) will be charged such students whose registration is not complete on or before January 24th.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AND REGULATIONS

Candidates for degrees will be required to recognize the sequence of courses in selecting their work, unless excused by the Faculty.

Persons not candidates for any degree may be admitted to the University as special students, provided they are of mature age and give the Faculty satisfactory evidence that they are properly qualified to do work creditably and with profit.

Special students may select their studies without reference to the sequence of courses, but otherwise are subject to the general regulations governing the student body. Such students may at any time become candidates for degrees by conforming to the regular requirements.

No student who has registered for regular work can change his status to that of a special without permission of the Faculty.

After registration no student will be permitted to drop a study, without the consent of the President, within two weeks after the beginning of the semester, nor after that time without the consent of the Faculty.

A student withdrawing from the University before the work of any semester has been completed shall thereby forfeit all credits for that semester; but at the discretion of the instructor such student, upon returning to college, may resume a subject at the point dropped and carry it to completion.

The regular work of the student calls for fifteen hours in the class room each week. Without special permission of the Faculty no student shall take less than twelve hours nor more than eighteen.

Each student must take a final examination before receiving credit in any course, except that in the second semester a student ready to receive a degree or diploma shall not be required to take an examination in those courses in which his daily grade for that semester is 90 per cent. or above.

A fee of two dollars ($2.00) will be charged for each extra or special examination in any department of the University. Said fee must be paid in advance to the Treasurer and receipt for the same presented to the instructor by the applicant before he will be permitted to take the examination.

PRIZES

The following prizes have been offered to the students of the University for the year 1915-16, to be awarded on Commencement Day:

1. For the best original oration delivered by a regular student of the University of Redlands at the annual Oratorical Contest on the third Friday of January, a gold medal or a prize of $25 is offered by the President of the Board of Trustees of the University, Mr. Mattison B. Jones, of Los Angeles.

2. For the best extempore speech delivered by a regular student of the University at the annual Contest in Extempore Speaking on the first Friday in December, a prize of $25 is offered by Mr. W. H. Fowler, of Ontario, trustee of the University.

3. For the best essay on either of the following subjects: "Science and Religion", "The Altruism of Science", "The Attitude of the Scientist to Truth", presented by any student in the Department of Biology, a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor Geo. Robertson, of the University.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

4. For the best music written by a student of the University for the college song of the University of Redlands, a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor C. E. Hubach, Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

5. For the best poem written by a student of the University as words for the college song, a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor C. E. Hubach, Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

SCHOLARSHIPS

A number of scholarships have been endowed by friends of the University, the income derived from such funds being devoted to defraying the tuition fees in the Liberal Arts College of those students to whom the scholarships are awarded.

Where the donors do not themselves award the scholarships, it is left with the authorities of the University to assign them. Conduct and scholarship are taken into consideration in the assignments of scholarships to matriculated students.

Particulars regarding scholarships may be obtained by addressing the University of Redlands.

ACCREDITING

The work of the University of Redlands will be accepted by the University of California or Leland Stanford, Jr., University for admission to Sophomore, Junior, Senior or Graduate standing.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

STUDENT HELP

A number of students are employed in the buildings and about the Campus to assist them in defraying a part of their expenses.

Often citizens of Redlands apply to the University for student help in exchange for room rent and board, or for other compensation. The University is glad to be able to help students and for that purpose keeps on file a list of such applications.

Inquiries regarding this matter should be addressed to the University of Redlands.

DORMITORIES, ROOM AND BOARD

In the Bekins Hall for Women and the Reavis Hall for men accommodation is provided for a limited number of students. Thoroly competent matrons in charge of the dormitories give assurance of adequate control. In both the halls it will be the purpose of the administration to approximate the home life as closely as possible.

Students unable to secure accommodations in the halls or desirous of securing rooms and board elsewhere, may obtain from the University of Redlands a list of approved locations. Students will be permitted to room only in places approved by the Faculty.

For cost of rooms and board see Expenses.

EXPENSES

It is believed that the expenses at this institution are as low as is consistent with the high character of the work done. The following schedule will serve to indicate the principal items:

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Tuition per semester, payable in advance:

College of Liberal Arts	$48.00
Academy,	36.00

Matriculation Fee:

College of Liberal Arts, and Fine Arts	$ 5.00
Academy	3.00

Registration Fee per semester:

College of Liberal Arts	$ 2.00
Academy	1.50

Laboratory Fees:

College Chemistry, for each course, per semester	$ 8.00
--	---------

Academy Chemistry for each course per semester	$ 5.00
--	---------

College course in Biology, per semester	$ 1.00
---	---------

A deposit of five dollars ($5.00) is required in Chemistry to cover breakage. This deposit, less cost of breakage, is refunded at the end of the year.

College Physics, for each course, per semester	$ 5.00
--	---------

Academy Physics, for each course, per semester	$ 3.00
--	---------

No breakage deposit is required in Physics, but an account is kept of all breakages and a charge is made therefor.

Students carrying not more than five hours of work will be charged one-third of the regular tuition fee; those carrying from six to ten hours inclusive, will be charged two-thirds of the regular fee, and those carrying more than ten hours will pay the full fee.

Students preparing for the ministry and children of ministers and missionaries will be granted a discount of 50 per cent. in tuition fees for regular work in the Academy and the College of Liberal Arts.

Special attention is called to the fact that the charge for tuition includes gymnasium, library, graduation and all incidental fees other than the matriculation and registration fees, and those connected with the laboratory work.

No student may attend classes for more than one week after the regular registration day without having made satisfactory arrangements with the treasurer concerning all monies due the University.

DORMITORY EXPENSES

The larger number of the dormitory rooms are arranged for two in a room, being furnished with two beds and in some of the rooms two closets.

The beds in Bekins Hall are single and provided with mattresses 6 ft. 2 in., by 3 ft., and pillows 23 by 30 inches. For dimensions of pillows and mattresses in Reavis Hall, address The House Mother.

Each student is expected to furnish bed covers, linen and towels.

Rooms and Board at the Dormitories:

Two in a room, per month$27 each

Two in room with bath adjoining, per month $30 each

When paid by the semester in advance, $105 and $115 respectively. Of this sum $20 per month is reckoned for the board and the balance as room rental. In case a student desires to room alone in one of the double rooms, a half more will be added to the room rental.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

The dormitories will be closed during the Christmas and the spring vacations unless a number of students desire to remain, in which case those students paying the semester rate will be charged an additional fee for their accommodations during these periods.

The necessary expenses, including room, board, tuition, books and laundry, will average about $350 or $375 for the year.

Rooms in the dormitory may be reserved at any time for 1916-17 by a deposit of five dollars with the University. This deposit will be deducted from the charges of the first month.

LIBRARY

The library of 7400 volumes and several thousand unbound magazines and pamphlets, contains especially well selected works on all subjects included in the curriculum. This number includes about 3000 volumes received as a permanent loan from California College, Oakland, Cal.

Many valuable books and sets have been given by generous friends of the University.

Moreover, through the courtesy of the A. K. Smiley Public Library of Redlands, with 27,427 volumes, the University Library is a depository, thruout the college year, for such books as the different departments may from time to time require.

A music library, largely a loan from the private library of Dean Hubach, is maintained in the Fine Arts building.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student shall be permitted to graduate from the University who has not credit for at least 120 hours and two years of physical education and who has not taken at least one year of the regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

English	6-9 hours
Mathematics	12 hours
History	6 hours
Sociology or Economics	3 hours
Ethics	3 hours
Christian Evidences	2 hours
Psychology	4 hours
Modern Languages	12 hours
Physics	8 hours
Chemistry	8 hours
Other Science	6 hours
<hr/>
Total required	73 hours
Electives	47 hours
<hr/>
Total	120 hours

BACHELOR OF ARTS

(2) English	6-12 hours
Mathematics	6 hours
(3) History	6-10 hours
Sociology or Economics	3 hours
Ethics	3 hours
Christian Evidences	2 hours
Psychology	4 hours
Science	8 hours
Foreign Languages	6 hours
<hr/>
Total required	62—72
Electives	58—48
Total	120

In addition to the above requirements for the A. B. degree the student must choose at least eighteen hours from one of the following departments: Ancient Languages, English, History, Political and Social Science, Philosophy or a Modern Language. If in a Modern Language the eighteen hours must be in addition to Courses I and II in these departments. Greek A, B, C, and D (see Academy Courses) cannot be counted as a part of the required eighteen hours in Ancient Languages.

(2) Students who offer fewer than four entrance units in English, will be required to take nine college hours in that subject for the B. S. degree and twelve for the A. B. degree.

(3.) Students who offer fewer than two entrance units in History, will be required to take ten college hours in that subject.

GRADUATE WORK

The secondary degrees of A. M. and M. S. will be awarded for one year's residence work in addition to that required for the degrees of A. B. or B. S. A candidate for the Master's degree shall select a major department in which he must do two-thirds of his work under the direction of the professor in charge of that department. The remaining one-third of the work required shall be taken in some other department or in not more than two others. Upon the completion of the year's study the candidate must pass an examination upon the subjects taken, such examination to be written, or written and oral, conducted by the instructors in the departments in which the candidate has taken his work and a visiting professor chosen from some other department by the President.

In addition to the resident work and the examination, as above indicated, the candidate shall prepare a thesis representing the results of original investigation on some subject suggested by the professor in charge of the major department. This thesis must conform to definite regulations, show independent investigation and be clothed in such language as will demonstrate the candidate's ability to properly handle such material.

Departments of Instruction

BIBLICAL STUDIES

Herbert E. Wise

Crawford Professor of English Bible and Cognate Studies

- I. The Apostolic Age. Due consideration is given to the distinguishing features of the individual books of the New Testament and their mutual relations; special emphasis, however, will be given to the life and labors of the Apostle Paul.
Elective to Freshmen and Sophomores.
Two hours per week, first semester.
- II. The Teaching of Jesus and His Apostles. This course is a continuation of the "Apostolic Age" and is a more intensive study of the fundamental teachings of the New Testament. Emphasis will be placed upon the necessity of the student's being familiar with the Biblical language and literary style, together with a knowledge of New Testament Times.
Elective to Freshmen and Sophomores.
Two hours per week, second semester.
- *III. Introduction to the Old Testament. A study of the origin, historical development, social messages, religious significance and permanent worth of the Old Testament.
Elective to Juniors and Seniors.
Two hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

*IV. Continuation of III.

Elective to Juniors and Seniors.

Two hours per week, second semester.

* Omitted in 1916-17.

BIOLOGY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

I. GENERAL BOTANY

The study will cover a general course in plant life, including lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The local flora is very rich in native and cultivated plants, suitable for study every month of the year. The work will be pursued along these lines (a) Morphological (especially the histological phase), (b) Physiological, and (c) special Botany, a study of local flora, conditions of plant development, and a knowledge of the economic value of California plants.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL BOTANY

Continuation of Biology I. The study of local flora will receive special attention.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

III. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

A study of invertebrate animal life, the structure, development, classification and distribution. The study of insects will be specifically considered.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

IV. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

Continuation of Biology III.

A study of vertebrate animal life; the morphology, development, physiology, classification, distribution and economic value. Especial attention is given to human physiology.

Elective.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

CHEMISTRY

S. Guy Jones, Professor

I. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in general and theoretical chemistry, accompanied by a laboratory course in qualitative analysis. Determination of the composition of natural and commercial products.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry I.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

III. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

General methods of Gravimetric Analysis. Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Laboratory work three periods per week, first semester.

IV. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry III. Gravimetric and Volumetric Analysis.

Laboratory work three periods per week, second semester.

V. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

A study of the compounds of Carbon.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VI. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry V.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

VII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

An advanced course in quantitative manipulations and determinations. The aim of the course is to obtain skill in quantitative manipulation and a knowledge of methods which will enable the student to quickly and easily become proficient in any of the several lines of quantitative analytical Chemistry.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I-IV.

Four laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VIII. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry VII.

Four laboratory periods per week, second semester.

IX. INORGANIC PREPARATIONS

Study of the accepted methods of preparing the principal inorganic compounds.

Prerequisite, Chemistry I and II.

Three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

ENGINEERING

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

I. MECHANICAL DRAWING

Use and care of drawing instruments, free-hand and mechanical lettering, exercises in projection and simple drawing.

Prerequisite, Mathematics A and B.

Two drawing periods per week, first semester.

II. CONTINUATION OF I.

Drawing accurately to scale plans, elevations, and sections from student's own measurements and free-hand sketches of simple machine parts.

Prerequisite Engineering I.

Two drawing periods per week, second semester.

III. SURVEYING

The use, care and adjustment of the Surveyor's instruments. Field work; chain and tape surveying, transit surveys, leveling, curves, etc.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II.

One recitation and two field periods per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

IV. SURVEYING

Continuation of III applied particularly to topographical surveying and mapping.

Prerequisite, Engineering III.

One recitation and two field (or drawing) periods per week, second semester.

V. DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY

A study of the principles which underlie orthographic projection, keeping in mind the importance of the ability to analyse a problem into its component parts and to reason from a given set of conditions to a required set of conclusions.

Prerequisite, Engineering I and II.

Three drawing periods per week, first semester.

VI. GRAPHIC STATISTICS

A study of methods of representing forces graphically and the application of the same in the determination of stress in structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Physics I, Engineering VII.

Recitation two hours and one drawing period per week, second semester.

VII. APPLIED MECHANICS

A study of the laws of statics and dynamics and their application to the various branches of engineering.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite Physics I and Mathematics V and VI.

Four recitations per week, first semester.

VIII. MECHANICS OF MATERIALS

A study of mechanics of materials including elastic and ultimate strength, and elastic ultimate deformations, cases of simple stress, theory of beams, columns, and shafts; also a study of the principles of reinforced concrete and their application in various structures.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Prerequisite, Engineering VII.

Four recitations per week, second semester.

ENGLISH

Egbert Ray Nichols, Professor

Mary Louise Todd, Associate Professor

From six to twelve units of English are required of A. B., and nine of B. S. students, the first six of which must be courses I. and II., which are prerequisites to all others except VII., VIII., XXV., XXVI., XXVII., and XXVIII. English VII., and VIII. are required of all Freshmen presenting less than four years of high school English for college entrance. Eighteen hours in addition to the six in courses I. and II. are required of students majoring in English.

The aim of the English department is threefold: (1) to train the students in the art of self-expression or English Composition, written and oral; (2) to give the student definite knowledge of the greater writers of English literature; and (3) to enable the student to appreciate and estimate in a measure by the higher standards of criticism the value and wealth of English literature.

The work of the department has been grouped under three heads. This division of the department is the logical and natural one of (A) Courses in Composition, (B) Courses in English Literature, and (C) Courses in Public Speaking. The courses in Divisions A and C are given by Mr. Nichols. Miss Todd assists with the courses in Division B.

A.—COURSES IN COMPOSITION

I. FRESHMAN RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

A study of composition, oral and written, with regular practice in writing and speaking.

Required of all Freshmen.

Three hours a week, first semester.

II. FRESHMAN RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

Continuation of Course I.

Required of all Freshmen.

Three hours a week, second semester.

III. ADVANCED COMPOSITION, AND MODERN LITERATURE

(a) A course in composition designed for those who wish to continue writing work beyond the Freshman year. A regular schedule of writing is followed. Longer themes are required and more attention is given to criticism than in English I. and II. English III. and IV. may be taken two years with full credit for each year. Modern literature is studied in this course regularly for a part of each week, course (b) being given with (a) one year and course (c) the following year.

Three hours a week, first semester.

!(b) The Short-story.

An outline study of the masterpieces of short prose fiction following a biographical, historical, or type classification. Collateral reading and oral reports on modern short-story writers required.

*(c) Modern Published Drama.

An outline study of contemporary drama as found in the published works of various dramatists, following a comparative literature, biographical, or type classification. Collateral reading and reports. Course (c) is designed to alternate with course (b).

IV. ADVANCED COMPOSITION AND MODERN LITERATURE

(a) A continuation of (a) as outlined in English III.

Three hours a week, second semester.

!(b) The Essay.

An outline study of the essay and "article" in contemporary writing, following a biographical or type classification. Collateral reading and reports.

*(c) A continuation of (c) as outlined in English III. Course (c) is designed to alternate with course (b) as in English III.

V. JOURNALISM

An elementary course in newspaper writing, including a study of reporting, editorial writing, features, advertising, etc. Two hours, first semester.

B—COURSES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

VII. HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

A general outline course in English literature from Beowulf to the year 1900.

Required of all students majoring in English Literature unless an equivalent is offered. Also required of Freshmen not presenting four years of high school English for college entrance. Open as elective to other students. Miss Todd.

Three hours a week, first semester.

VIII. CONTINUATION OF ENGLISH VII.

Three hours a week, second semester. Miss Todd.

IX. SHAKESPEARE AND THE ELIZABETHAN AGE

(a) An intensive study of three plays of Shakespeare including Hamlet or Othello.

College of Fine Arts

GENERAL INFORMATION

In accordance with the plan followed in connection with the other departments of the University, provisions have been made for the most thorough and advanced work in the Department of Music and Art.

The line of work in the University course in Music, conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, corresponds with that of some of the European Universities.

Preparatory, or Elementary work has also been provided to accommodate those who have not the proper number of entrance requirements for registration in the College work in Music. Saturday classes for children and young people in both Piano and Art provide a valuable opportunity for the cultivation of talent in the early years, under the guidance of competent instructors, who are under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

Realizing the extent to which superior musical efficiency is attainable only in conjunction with the highest cultural development, stress is laid upon this phase of the students' growth; and special attention is directed to such courses in the other departments of the University as will prove of value in this respect to Music and Art students.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

A Choral Society under the direction of the Head of the Department of Voice gives opportunity for expression and development of musical ability to the students of the entire University.

The College of Fine Arts is prepared to furnish the following eminent soloists for concerts, recitals, etc., in whole or in part.

Olga Steeb, the celebrated pianist.

Oskar Seiling, the famous violinist.

Dean Chas. Edward Hubach, noted tenor.

Mrs. Carroll B. Smith, organist.

Also the University Octet is open to a limited number of engagements.

For particulars and terms, address the Dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of Redlands, Redlands, California.

Classes in the Department of Music will be organized at the beginning of the college year, as indicated in the Calendar.

Special lessons may be begun at any time.

Piano practice may be arranged for at the Fine Arts Building or Bekins Hall.

DEPARTMENTS, DEGREES AND REQUIREMENTS

DEPARTMENTS

The College of Fine Arts is made up of the following Departments:

- (1) Music.
- (2) Drawing and Painting.

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES

A Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, will be awarded to those who complete the required courses.

A Special Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music will be awarded to those who complete the required courses with high standing in all subjects as well as in public performance.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

There are two methods of admission to the College of Fine Arts, (1) by Examination, (2) by Certificate.

By Examination:—All students who cannot present certificates from accredited schools will be examined in the subjects required for entrance.

By Certificate:—Students will be admitted without examination on certificates from accredited High Schools or other preparatory schools, signed by the proper school officer. (For details of units required, see page thirty.)

In Piano and Organ:—Applicants are required in addition to the above to pass an examination embracing the following or their equivalent:

1. An exercise. 2. Selections from Bach. 3. Sonata—Classical School.

In Voice and Violin:—Applicants for the regular course in Voice, or Violin must be able to play Piano accompaniments of moderate difficulty. Any deficiencies in this respect must be made up before graduation.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

SPECIAL STUDENTS IN MUSIC

Students need not be deterred from seeking to enter the School of Fine Arts of the University because they can not satisfy all the requirements for full admission to that school. Those requirements are for persons who are candidates for a degree in music. All persons who desire to pursue a special line of work, without conforming to the requirements for entrance, or following a prescribed course, may apply for admission to the School of Fine Arts as special students. The admission of such persons is under the control of the Dean, to whom they should apply, and whose certificate of acceptance must be presented to the Registrar before registration.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student will be permitted to graduate from the Department of Music, College of Fine Arts, who has not credit for the requisite number of hours as designated below, and two years of physical education, and who has not taken at least one year of regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

ART

Students for the Art Department will be admitted at any time, but not for less than one semester except by special arrangement with the Dean.

Instruction in all Art classes is individual. Advancement of each student depends upon the degree of proficiency attained.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

ARTISTS' COURSE—COLLEGIATE COURSE

These courses are identical in outline, but students in the Artists' course are expected to do a larger amount of work, to maintain the highest grade in all musical subjects, and give a graduating recital. This is not required in the collegiate course, which is intended for those who wish to fit themselves for teachers or take music for personal culture rather than to become public performers. After the second year students are graded in the two courses according to their standing.

Students who are backward in technical development at the end of the Sophomore year must make up the deficiency by special work in Piano before they receive Junior standing.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

CONCERTS AND RECITALS

Concerts are frequently given in Recital Hall, by the Faculty and advanced students.

Concert courses which are arranged for at special rates by the Spinnet Club of Redlands, afford students an opportunity to hear many noted musicians.

Recitals are given semi-monthly by the students of the College of Fine Arts at which works studied in the class room are performed before audiences of fellow students and their friends. All Fine Arts students are required to attend these concerts and recitals, and to take part in programs at least twice a year and to present, each semester, a record of attendance. These semi-public appearances are of great assistance in enabling the student to acquire the ease and self-possession so essential to a successful public appearance.

At the close of the College year, during Commencement Week, the Anniversary Recital of the College of Fine Arts, Department of Music is held; at which the students doing the best work in performance at the above-mentioned recitals will be heard.

Preparatory Department

GENERAL INFORMATION

The University authorities have determined, for a few years at least, to maintain a preparatory department, covering approximately the last two years of the regular high school or academy courses. The work in these classes will be given in so far as possible, by the regular professors in the University.

Students contemplating entering the academy should request the superintendent of the school last attended to forward to the Registrar of the University a certificate showing the work for which credit will be asked. The entrance requirements for this department presuppose that the student has completed the work for the first two years in some accredited high school.

Students expecting to take the entrance examinations should present themselves to the Dean on the dates set for such examinations (see Calendar.)

The system of grading, the regulations as to work and examinations, and all general rules and regulations of the University apply also to the Academy. Upon request, parents of the students in the Academy will be kept informed as to the character of the work being done.

Graduates from the Academy will be granted a diploma showing completion of this work and will be admitted to the University without examination.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

To that student graduating from the Academy with the highest average grade of work done in residence of at least one year will be granted a prize in the form of a free tuition in the College of Liberal Arts for one semester, providing such work is taken during the year immediately following that in which said student completed the Academy.

HISTORICAL

On the seventh day of December, 1906, the Baptists of Southern California, in Convention assembled in Berean Hall, Los Angeles, resolved to found and foster a high grade Christian college. A committee of twenty-one representative men was appointed to select the location for the college, manage the campaign for a Founding Fund and organize the institution.

The canvass for a founding fund of $300,000 was begun the first of September, 1907, and so hearty was the response that at the convention held in Los Angeles in January, 1909, the Committee was able to announce the assured success of the movement.

The location of the college at Redlands was due both to the acknowledged fitness of the city as a home for such an institution and the generous offer of a campus of forty acres and $100,000 toward the founding fund.

To the forty acres given by Redlands for a campus has since been added twenty-three acres, including the beautiful University Hill, now occupied by the Administration Building and the Fine Arts Building.

With the $300,000 founding fund and the beginning of the first building the work of actualizing the institution may be said to have commenced.

The University of Redlands was incorporated under that title in 1907.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

On September 29th, 1909, less than three years from the time of the inception of the movement, the institution threw open its doors to the public.

The College of Liberal Arts was organized and continued thru the first semester of 1909-10 in the Bible School rooms of the First Baptist Church of Redlands.

In February, 1910, the ample Administration Building was occupied.

From the beginning a College of Fine Arts has been a prominent feature of the plans for the University. This work for the first year, 1909-10, was largely carried on at the private studios of the professors and instructors. From 1910 to 1914 the work of the Fine Arts College was housed in Bekins Hall. The present Fine Arts Building, which stands on University Hill and to the east of the Administration Building, was occupied in September of 1914.

LOCATION

Redlands, the home of the University, is a beautiful city of 11,000 inhabitants, situated sixty-six miles east of Los Angeles, in the heart of the largest orange growing district in the world, and close to the eternal mountains, whose massive strength gives courage, whose grandeur gives inspiration, whose repose gives rest. The city is located at an altitude of about 1400 feet, which gives it as nearly an ideal climate as it is possible to find, sometimes touching the frost point in winter, warm in summer; but, even in the warmest summer months, always having cool and restful nights.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Flowers blossom all the year round and the finest fruits are always in season. The class of people who have made Redlands what it is, coming from all parts of the country, is thoroly cosmopolitan and is closely in touch with the latest thought and endeavor of the world. Redlands is a church going city, and with this sentiment thus dominant there is no saloon within her borders. In short, Redlands is a city of high moral tone and culture, justly deserving the name that has been given to it, "The Athens of Southern California." Many trains a day, steam and trolley, connect Redlands with Los Angeles and other nearby towns, the trip to Los Angeles taking two and one-half hours, thru the orange groves and vineyards of the garden spot of the United States, Redlands can be reached directly via either the Southern Pacific or the Santa Fe railroads or the Pacific Electric. It is also reached by the Salt Lake Route thru San Bernardino and Pacific Electric to Redlands.

The location of this place for an institution of higher learning, such as the University of Redlands, presents unusual opportunities for an ideal home life to parents desiring to have their children live at home while pursuing a college course.

CAMPUS

In a beautiful valley under the shadow of the "Everlasting Hills" the campus of the University of Redlands surely has an inspiring setting. Its sixty-three acres, under the skill of a landscape architect, aided by a beneficent climate, has in a short time become a spot of rare beauty. A special, and to many, a unique feature of the campus is a regularly laid out and fruit bearing orange grove of 1900 trees, covering every slope of University Hill. With stately architecture to grace its greensward, winding drives, glowing flowers, and wrapt in the indefinable atmosphere which adds so much romance and charm to our Western land, the place itself will surely inspire with the highest ideals the sons and daughters who will throng its halls of learning.

THE BUILDINGS

ADMINISTRATION

The main structure of the whole University scheme, the Administration Building, was completed in 1910. It is massive and monumental in character, a pure example of classic architecture, of the mixed Ionic order. The exterior is faced with gray granite and with its massive columns and red tile roof harmonizes admirably with its majestic setting of mountain and valley.

The building contains the offices of the President, Registrar and Treasurer, and at present accommodates the recitation and laboratory work of the College of Liberal Arts, embracing some sixteen recitation rooms, chemical and physical laboratories, lecture rooms, library, society halls; locker rooms, etc. The entire equipment is of the highest order, especial attention being paid to the ventilation and sanitary requirements.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

FINE ARTS BUILDING

To the east of the Administration Building and forming the second of the group of three proposed for University Hill, stands the Fine Arts Building. Its handsome lines harmonize with those of the Administration Building, and the others on the campus.

The Vocal, Piano, Violin, and Art Studios, as well as the classrooms, practice rooms, and musical library, are in this structure while the spacious hall provides room for the accommodation of audiences at the semi-monthly and other recitals.

The building was largely the gift of Mrs. Julia A. Libby of Santa Ana.

BEKINS HALL

Bekins Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bekins, of Los Angeles, was completed and occupied in October, 1910. The building is classic in architecture and absolutely fireproof in construction. It contains rooms for the accommodation of fifty young women, besides parlors, dining hall and kitchen, and a specially equipped laundry. Many of the rooms are connected with private baths. Ample verandas and a roof garden foster out-door life.

REAVIS HALL

Reavis Hall is named in honor of the late Benjamin H. Reavis, of Orange, Cal., whose generous gifts to the University have more than justified the naming of the young men's dormitory.

The hall is operated by the University Co-Operative Club, a student organization. It is located on the campus at the foot of University Hill near the athletic field and the men's gymnasium. Accommodations and board superior in every respect to those obtainable elsewhere, may be secured here.

The club elects its own officers and operates co-operatively upon an expense basis with a house-mother and general manager at the head. The cost per month is much less than that at which good board and room may be secured any where else in Redlands.

As the capacity of the dormitory is limited, a deposit of five dollars is required for the reservation of a room. This deposit will be deducted from the expenses of the first month.

Further information may be secured by addressing Mr. E. F. Bamford, Secretary-Treasurer of the University Co-Operative Club, Reavis Hall, Redlands, California, or the University.

MEN'S GYMNASIUM

At the northeast corner of the Athletic Field stands the first unit of the gymnasium for men, with showers, dressing rooms and lockers. Southwest of the gymnasium are the Athletic Field and Tennis Courts, and arrangements for all sorts of out-door sports and exercises.

WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM

Just south of the Fine Arts Building stands the gymnasium for women. The building contains dressing rooms, sanitary showers and a gymnasium floor space 32 by 60 feet. The building is provided with a complete equipment for calisthenics and light gymnastics as well as for basket ball, volley and indoor baseball.

ORGANIZATIONS

ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

The Associated Student Body is composed of all the students matriculated in the various colleges of the University. Its officers are chosen by the student body from their own number. Regular meetings are held each week to deal with matters of general interest to all students.

PI KAPPA CHI

One of the literary societies maintained by the young ladies of the University is known as Pi Kappa Chi, and was organized during the opening year of the University, 1909-10.

This society has for its aims both literary and social development.

The meetings are held on alternate Thursday afternoons and have proved of great pleasure and profit to the members.

ATHENA CLUB

The Athena Club was organized by young women of the University in 1915. This club carries on active work under the following departments, whose titles indicate the objects of the organization:—Literary, Civics, Dramatics, Music and Home Economics.

Every member is required to choose and work in one of these departments.

Mrs. E. R. Nichols is the Patroness and gives special attention to the dramatic department for which she is especially fitted.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

The benefits of organized work of this kind among the young ladies are readily recognized.

PI KAPPA DELTA

The University of Redlands has a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, a forensic honor society organized among colleges of the Middle West in January, 1913. All orators and debaters who represent the institution in intercollegiate contests are eligible to membership and are elected upon application. The organization confers an honorary key which is jewelled to show the achievement in forensics attained by the wearer.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

Branches of the College Departments of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association are doing active and effective work. Each association holds a weekly prayer meeting. Representatives from the societies are sent to the Bible and General Conferences for Colleges. The good effect of these Christian organizations is very marked in the daily life of the student body. Every encouragement and assistance is given these organizations by the faculty.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

The Choral Society is composed of those of the student body who are musically inclined. The society is under the direction of Dean Hubach and is designed to give drill in general chorus work and, by means of talks and lectures, to give the members a knowledge of the historical and cultural value of music. One hour of credit per year is given for satisfactory work in the society.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

GERMAN CLUB

In February, 1910, the German Club was organized under the direction of Professor Hill, and meets fortnightly. The club chooses its own officers and has as one of its regulations, "no language but German for one hour." Besides the social feature, the benefits of the club are seen in a better pronunciation and understanding of the German language.

CONCERT OCTET

A Concert Octet of mixed voices from the ranks of the vocal students makes frequent trips to the nearby cities for mutual benefit and to advertise the University in other communities. Admission to this organization is by competitive examinations under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts. Only the finest of artistic music is rendered by these young people, who have given great pleasure to many by their capable performances.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB

A College Glee Club for men is always a happy addition to the life of the institution.

The Glee Club of the University of Redlands, of more than twenty voices, has become a feature of the social and public occasions of the College life.

During the Spring vacation the Glee Club made a pleasant trip thru portions of Southern and Central California.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS

The University of Redlands publishes a quarterly bulletin, one of which is the annual catalog. The other three are devoted to special studies and reports of officers and other matters of importance.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

The Campus, a weekly paper published by the Associated Student Body thru an elected staff, is an exponent of the student life and activities of the University.

LA LETRA

La Letra, The University Annual, is published by a special staff chosen by the student body and is devoted to the features of the University life for the year.

The Annual comes from the press about June First of each year and is eagerly awaited by all those connected with the University.

COLORS

The official colors of the University of Redlands are Maroon and Silver Gray.

ATHLETICS

The University of Redlands recognizes the value of athletics in the college curriculum. Athletics is the vitalizing force of "College Spirit," and hence of value to college students in general. Athletics, when properly coached and controlled, is of great value to the participant, for not only is the body developed, the eye made keener and the judgment quickened, but, if allowed so to do, the broader and finer qualities of mind and of soul, even, find expression and receive impulses and strength. Therefore athletics occupies the usual important place in the schedule.

The athletic park is enclosed and contains a 220 yard straight-away and a circular four lap track, both in excellent condition. Inside the circular track the football and baseball fields are laid out.

College of Liberal Arts

ADMISSION

Every student, unless he brings a certificate of proficiency from an accredited school, shall before entering any class in the collegiate department, be examined upon the following subjects required for entrance:

In the College of Liberal Arts the University of Redlands offers courses leading to the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees with the following

NOTE:—The candidate must have chosen his work so as to present at least 4 units of work which is generally regarded as belonging to the 3rd and 4th years of the High School. Students wishing to major in Ancient Languages in the College must offer four entrance units in Latin.

(1.) A student presenting only two of these three units, but an extra unit in either Mathematics or Foreign Language, will be entered without condition, but must elect the equivalent science course in the College. This shall not reduce the total amount of work required in these subjects for graduation.

In the list of subjects enumerated above the term unit is employed to signify the amount of preparatory work done in a given subject during a school year.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

ADMISSION BY CERTIFICATE

Graduates of approved high schools or academies will be given credit for any of the subjects listed below in which they are recommended. Blanks for such recommendation will be furnished on application to the University and it is expected that all applicants for admission, without examination, will use them.

In the list of admission subjects enumerated below the term unit is understood to represent five recitations per week of forty-five minutes each, four recitations per week of sixty minutes each thruout one school year, or equivalent. A detailed description of the essential subjects may be found in the printed lists of the American College entrance requirements.

allied subjects, such as economics and history, except in industrial arts, agriculture, music, etc., as indicated above.

One year of a foreign language will not be accepted until supplemented by an additional year of the same language in the University of Redlands.

ADVANCED STANDING

If a student upon entering the University can present more than sixteen units, he may apply for advanced standing on the excess of units above that number.

The granting of advanced standing, in any department, is dependent upon the recommendation of the head of that department, who also reserves the right to examine the applicant, in the subjects in which advanced credit is sought, before making any recommendation.

Credit without examinations for work done in other institutions will be granted only upon receipt of a satisfactory certificate mailed to the University of Redlands by the proper official of the institution in which the work was done.

A student from another institution of equal scholastic rank may be admitted to advanced standing in the University upon presentation to the committee having charge of credits satisfactory evidence of having completed the work claimed, together with a certificate of honorable dismissal.

Students failing to satisfy any of the above requirements for admission may be received on condition, but such condition must be removed before said students are admitted to the Junior Class.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

MATRICULATION AND REGISTRATION

Each student desiring to register is required to present himself to the President, who will advise with him and direct him to the registration committee and the Registrar.

Students are urged to register on the designated registration days. Absences from classes are counted from the day on which instruction begins. The student, within one week after registration day or at once, in case of late registration, must obtain from the Treasurer a card of admission to classes. No registration is complete until fees due the institution are paid or arranged for. Any student wishing to discontinue a course or in any way change his registration will proceed as in the original registration.

Students enrolled for the first semester and registering for the second semester will be expected to register between Friday, January 4th and Saturday, January 26th. An extra fee of one dollar ($1.00) will be charged the student whose registration is not complete on or before January 26th.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AND REGULATIONS

Candidates for degrees will be required to recognize the sequence of courses in selecting their work, unless excused by the Faculty.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Persons not candidates for any degree may be admitted to the University as special students, provided they are of mature age and give the Faculty satisfactory evidence that they are properly qualified to do work creditably and with profit.

Special students may select their studies without reference to the sequence of courses, but otherwise are subject to the general regulations governing the student body. Such students may at any time become candidates for degrees by conforming to the regular requirements.

No student who has registered for regular work can change his status to that of a special without permission of the Faculty.

A student withdrawing from the University before the work of any semester has been completed shall thereby forfeit all credits for that semester; but at the discretion of the instructor such student, upon returning to college, may resume a subject at the point dropped and carry it to completion.

Full work for the Freshman and Sophomore years shall be sixteen hours per semester, including physical education.

No regular student is allowed to carry more than 18 hours or less than 12 hours, except by special action of the Faculty.

Those who represent the University in inter-collegiate activities, or in other capacities, or who are managers or editors of student publications or officers of the Associated Student Body shall be regular students and doing a passing grade of work in at least 12 hours.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Each student must take a final examination before receiving credit in any course, except that in the second semester a student ready to receive a degree shall not be required to take an examination in those courses in which his daily grade for that semester is 90 per cent. or above.

SCHOLARSHIP GRADING

The following system of grading is used in the University of Redlands:

- A denotes a good grade of work.
- B " average work.
- C " passing, but poor.
- D " conditioned.
- E " failed.

A condition in any course may be removed before the course is again offered in accordance with the requirements made by the teacher concerned. A fee of $2.00 is charged for each extra or special examination, except that if a student is forced to be absent from all the examinations of the semester, the fee for the entire number shall not exceed $5.00.

SCHOLARSHIPS—STUDENT AID

A number of scholarships have been endowed by friends of the University, the income derived from such funds being devoted to defraying the tuition fees in the College of Liberal Arts of the students to whom they are assigned. These scholarships are awarded to those students who are in need of aid in securing a college education. In the awarding of these scholarships, the grade of work which has been done and is being done by the student is taken into consideration. A student receiving such aid is expected to conduct himself in a way which is for the best interest of the institution. He may be asked to render some light service to the institution which will not interfere with his studies.

The University aids some students by work about the campus and in the halls and co-operates with students in securing work about the city. Students who are thus helped are expected to give value received and to co-operate in maintaining a good spirit in the University.

Inquiries regarding this matter should be addressed to the University of Redlands.

DORMITORIES, ROOM AND BOARD

In Bekins Hall for Women accommodation is provided for a number of students. A thoroly competent matron is in charge of the dormitory, giving assurance of adequate control. In the hall it is the purpose of the administration to approximate the home life as closely as possible.

Reavis Hall likewise provides for a number of the men.

Students are expected to room in the college dormitories unless there are good reasons for their doing otherwise.

Students are allowed to room only in places approved by the Faculty. To this end a list of approved places is kept in the college offices. This list should be consulted by a student before he engages a rooming place. Places are not approved unless a responsible householder is in charge. General boarding houses are not approved and it is desirable that not more than six students room and board in any one place off the Campus. Groups of students are not allowed to rent a house for living quarters. Any student changing his living place is expected to consult with the office concerning such change.

For cost of rooms and board see Expenses.

EXPENSES

It is believed that the expenses at this institution are as low as is consistent with the high character of the work done. The following schedule will serve to indicate the principal items:

Tuition per semester, payable in advance:

Colleges of Liberal Arts$48.00

Matriculation Fee:

College of Liberal Arts and Fine Arts$ 5.00

Registration Fee per Semester:

College of Liberal Arts and Fine Arts.....$2.00

Laboratory Fees:

Chemistry, for each course, per semester.....$8.00

Biology, per semester$ 1.00

Physics, for each course, per semester$ 5.00

A deposit of five dollars ($5.00) is required in Chemistry to cover breakage. This deposit, less cost of breakage, is refunded at the end of the year.

No breakage deposit is required in Physics, but an account is kept of all breakages and a charge is made therefor.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Students carrying not more than five hours of work will be charged one-third of the regular tuition fee; those carrying from six to ten hours inclusive, will be charged two-thirds of the regular fee, and those carrying more than ten hours will pay the full fee.

Students preparing for the ministry and children of ministers and missionaries will be granted a discount of 50 per cent. in tuition fees for regular work in the College of Liberal Arts.

Special attention is called to the fact that the charge for tuition includes gymnasium, library, graduation and all incidental fees other than the matriculation and registration fees, and those connected with laboratory work.

No student may attend classes for more than one week after the regular registration day without having made satisfactory arrangements with the treasurer concerning all monies due the University.

DORMITORY EXPENSES

The larger number of the dormitory rooms are arranged for two in a room, being furnished with two beds and in some cases having two closets.

The beds in Bekins Hall are single and provided with mattresses 6 ft. 2 in., by 3 ft., and pillows 23 by 30 inches. For dimensions of pillows and mattresses in Reavis Hall, address The House Mother.

Each student is expected to furnish bed covers, linen and towels.

Rooms and Board at Bekins Hall:

Two in a room, per month$27 each

Two in room with bath adjoining, per month $30 each

When paid by the semester in advance, $105 and $115 respectively. Of this sum $20 per month is reckoned for the board and the balance as room rental. In case a student desires to room alone in one of the double rooms, a half more will be added to the room rental.

The dormitories will be closed during the Christmas and the Spring vacations unless a number of students desire to remain, in which case those students paying the semester rate will be charged an additional fee for their accommodations during these periods.

The necessary expenses, including room, board, tuition, books and laundry, will average about $350 or $375 for the year.

Rooms in the dormitory may be reserved at any time for 1917-18 by a deposit of five dollars with the University. This deposit will be deducted from the charges of the first month.

LIBRARY

The library of 7400 volumes and several thousand unbound magazines and pamphlets, contains especially well selected works on all subjects included in the curriculum. This number includes about 3000 volumes received as a permanent loan from California College, Oakland, Cal.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Many valuable books and sets have been given by generous friends of the University.

Moreover, through the courtesy of the A. K. Smiley Public Library of Redlands, with 27,427 volumes, the University Library is a depository, thruout the college year, for such books as the different departments may from time to time require.

A music library, largely a loan from the private library of Dean Hubach, is maintained in the Fine Arts building.

PRIZES

The following prizes have been offered to the students of the University for the year 1916-17 to be awarded on Commencement Day:

1. For the best original oration delivered by a regular student of the University of Redlands at the annual Oratorical Contest on the third Friday of January, a gold medal or a prize of $25 is offered by the President of the Board of Trustees of the University, Mr. Mattison B. Jones, of Los Angeles.

2. For the best extempore speech delivered by a regular student of the University at the annual Contest in Extempore Speaking on the first Friday in December, a prize of $25 is offered by Mr. W. H. Fowler, of Ontario, a trustee of the University.

3. For the best essay on the subject "Science and Civilization" presented by any student in the Department of Biology, a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor Geo. Robertson of the University.

4. For the best essay on the subject "My Philosophy of Life" presented by a Junior or Senior in the Department of Philosophy a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor Herbert E. Wise of the University.

5. For the best criticism of a Greek author presented by a member of the Literature class a prize of $5.00 is offered by Professor J. W. Kyle of the University.

ACCREDITING

The work of the University of Redlands will be accepted by the University of California or Leland Stanford, Jr., University for admission to Sophomore, Junior, Senior or Graduate standing.

Columbia University has already admitted several of our graduates to graduate standing without condition, granting them the Master's Degree in one year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student shall be permitted to graduate from the College of Liberal Arts of the University who has not credit for at least 124 hours including two years of physical education and who has not taken at least one year of the regular work at the University.

The required work leading to the different degrees is as follows:

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

English	6-9 hours
Mathematics	12 hours
History	6 hours
Sociology or Economics	3 hours

Total	124 hours

In addition to the above requirements for the Bachelor of Arts Degree, the candidate must satisfy the conditions for a major as defined below.

(1.) Students who offer fewer than four entrance units in English, will be required to take nine college hours in that subject for the B. S. degree and twelve for the A. B. degree.

(2.) Students who offer fewer than two entrance units in History, will be required to take ten college hours in that subject.

At least thirty-six hours of the Junior and Senior years must be from courses classified as "Junior and Senior."

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Every candidate for a degree is required to select a major and signify the same to the Registrar and the head of the department in which he selects his major. Such selection may well be postponed until the Sophomore year but not later than that time without special permission.

As soon as a student has decided on a major he shall choose his minor in conference with the head of the department in which he has chosen his major.

A major shall consist of twenty-four hours in one department, from courses classified by that department as majors and at least twelve hours must be from courses classified as "Junior and Senior."

A minor shall consist of at least nine hours from courses which may be counted toward a major in any department.

BIOLOGY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

Courses III, IV, V, VI, VII and VIII will be accepted as majors.

I. GENERAL BOTANY

The study will cover a general course in plant life, including lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The local flora is very rich in native and cultivated plants, suitable for study every month of the year. The work will be pursued along these lines (a) Morphological (especially the histological phase), (b) Physiological, and (c) special Botany, a study of local flora, conditions of plant development, and a knowledge of the economic value of California plants.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL BOTANY

Continuation of Biology I. The study of local flora will receive special attention.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

III. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

A study of invertebrate animal life, the structure, development, classification and distribution. The study of insects will be specifically considered.

Sophomore-Junior course.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

IV. GENERAL ZOOLOGY

Continuation of Biology III.

A study of vertebrate animal life; the morphology, development, physiology, classification, distribution and economic value. Especial attention is given to human physiology.

Sophomore-Junior course.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

V. DENDROLOGY

The course in Forest Botany will consist of lectures, assigned reading and papers and laboratory work on trees and chapparal, their morphology, classification, geographical distribution, physiology, economic values and their relation to silviculture and arboriculture.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, first semester. Two hours' lecture and one laboratory period.

Prerequisite courses Biology I and II.

VI. ANGIOSPERMS

The course deals with Phaenogamic Botany, their ontogeny and Phylogeny, their orders, morphology, physiology, habits of growth, geological history, geographical distribution and their economic values. Southern California types will be especially considered.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, per week, second semester; two periods lectures and a laboratory period of two hours per week, with the addition of special courses of reading. Prerequisite courses III and IV.

VII. ADVANCED INVERTEBRATE ZOOLOGY

Lectures, readings, laboratory work dealing with local invertebrate Zoology, their morphology, habits, distribution, life histories. Entomology will receive special attention.

Three hours, first semester. Two lecture hours and one laboratory period.

Prerequisite course III and IV. Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. ADVANCED GENERAL VERTEBRATE ZOOLOGY

The course will embrace a study of vertebrate animal structure anatomy and physiology, development, habits, variation and distribution. Dissection of selected type specimens, and special courses of reading with assigned papers will be required.

Prerequisite course VII.

Three hours per week, second semester. Two lecture hours and one laboratory period.

Note—Biology V and VI will alternate each year with Biology VII and VIII. Biology V and VI will be given in 1917-18.

CHEMISTRY

S. Guy Jones, Professor

Courses III to XIV inclusive will be accepted as majors.

I. ELEMENTS OF CHEMISTRY

An introductory course intended for those who do not offer matriculation Chemistry.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. ELEMENTS OF CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry I.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

III. GENERAL INORGANIC CHEMISTRY AND QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

IV. GENERAL INORGANIC CHEMISTRY AND QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry III. Analysis for non-metals and negative ions. Determination of the composition of natural and commercial products.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

V. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

General methods of Gravimetric Analysis.

Prerequisite, Chemistry III-IV.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VI. QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS

Continuation of Chemistry V. Gravimetric and Volumetric analysis.

Three laboratory periods per week, second semester.

VII. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

A study of the compounds of Carbon. Laboratory work in the preparation of organic compounds and the study of their properties.

Prerequisite, Chemistry III-IV.

Junior-Senior course.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

VIII. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry VII.

Two recitations and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

IX. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE CHEMISTRY

An advanced course in quantitative manipulations and determinations. The aim of the course is to obtain skill in quantitative manipulation and a knowledge of methods which will enable the student to quickly and easily become proficient in any of the several lines of quantitative analytical Chemistry.

Prerequisite, Chemistry V-VI.

Three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

X. ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry IX.

Three laboratory periods per week, second semester.

XI. OR XII. INORGANIC PREPARATIONS

Study of the accepted methods of preparing the principal inorganic compounds.

Prerequisite, Chemistry III-IV.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three laboratory periods per week, either semester.

XIII. PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

A course in the fundamentals of Physical Chemistry. The study of the properties of gases, liquids and solids. Also rate of chemical change and chemical equilibrium.

Two recitation-lecture periods and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

XIV. PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

Continuation of Chemistry XIII.

Two recitation-lecture periods and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

ENGINEERING

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

A complete technical course in engineering is not offered at present. The following subjects are for the benefit of those who desire to complete their preparation for this profession after having obtained a broad cultural basis for the same.

I. MECHANICAL DRAWING

Use and care of drawing instruments, free-hand and mechanical lettering, exercises in projection and simple drawing.

Prerequisite, Plane Geometry.

Two drawing periods per week, first semester.

This course may not be counted toward a major.

II. CONTINUATION OF I.

Drawing accurately to scale plans, elevations, and sections from student's own measurements and free-hand sketches of simple machine parts.

Prerequisite Engineering I.

Two drawing periods per week, second semester.

III. SURVEYING

The use, care and adjustment of the Surveyor's instruments. Field work; chain and tape surveying, transit surveys, leveling, curves, etc.

Prerequisite, Mathematics II.

One recitation and two field periods per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

IV. SURVEYING

Continuation of III applied particularly to topographical surveying and mapping.

Major course.

Prerequisite, Engineering III.

Sophomore course.

One recitation and two field (or drawing) periods per week, second semester.

V. DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY

A study of the principles which underlie orthographic projection, keeping in mind the importance of the ability to analyse a problem into its component parts and to reason from a given set of conditions to a required set of conclusions.

Major course.

Prerequisite, Engineering I and II.

Freshmen-Sophomore course.

Three drawing periods per week, first semester.

VI. DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY

Continuation of V., including single and double curved surfaces, shades and shadows, and the elements of perspective and isometric projection.

Prerequisite, Engineering V.

Three drawing periods per week, second semester.

VII. APPLIED MECHANICS

A study of the laws of statics and dynamics and their application to the various branches of engineering.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

Major course.

Prerequisite Physics III and Mathematics VII and VIII.

Junior-Senior course.

Four recitations per week, first semester.

VIII. GRAPHIC STATISTICS

A study of methods of representing forces graphically and the application of the same in the determination of stresses in structures.

Major course.

Prerequisite, Physics III, Engineering VII.

Junior-Senior course.

Recitation two hours and one drawing period per week, second semester.

X. MECHANICS OF MATERIALS

A study of mechanics of materials including elastic and ultimate strength, and elastic ultimate deformations, cases of simple stress, theory of beams, columns, and shafts; also a study of the principles of reinforced concrete and their application in various structures.

Major course.

Prerequisite, Engineering VIII.

Senior course.

Four recitations per week, second semester.

ENGLISH

Egbert Ray Nichols, Professor

Mary Louise Todd, Associate Professor

The aim of the English department is threefold: (1) to train the students in the art of self-expression or English Composition, written and oral; (2) to give the student definite knowledge of the greater writers of English literature; and (3) to enable the student to appreciate and estimate in a measure by the higher standards of criticism the value and wealth of English literature.

The work of the department has been grouped under three heads. This division of the department is the logical and natural one of (A) Courses in Composition, (B) Courses in English Literature, and (C) Courses in Public Speaking. The courses in Divisions A and C are given by Mr. Nichols. Miss Todd assists with the courses in Division B.

From six to twelve units of English are required of A. B., and nine of B. S. students, the first six of which must be courses I. and II., which are prerequisites to all others except VII., VIII., XXV., XXVI., XXXI., XXXII., XXXIII., and XXXIV. English VII., and VIII. are required of all Freshmen presenting less than four years of high school English for college entrance. Twenty-four hours in addition to the hours in courses I., II., VII., and VIII. are required of students majoring in English.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

All courses in Composition and Literature may be counted toward a major in English unless otherwise designated. Only four hours of Public Speaking may be counted toward the English major. Course XII is required of all English majors.

Students expecting to major in English should present a program of study to the head of the department before the beginning of the Junior year.

A.—COURSES IN COMPOSITION

I. RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

A study of composition, oral and written, with regular practice in writing and speaking.

Freshmen course. May not be counted for major.

Three hours a week, first semester.

II. RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION

Continuation of Course I.

Freshmen course.

Three hours a week, second semester.

III. ADVANCED COMPOSITION AND JOURNALISM

A course in composition designed for those who wish to continue writing work beyond the Freshman year. A regular schedule of writing is followed. Longer themes are required and more attention is given to criticism than in English I. and II. English III. and IV. may be taken two years with full credit for each year.

Three hours a week, first semester.

IV. ADVANCED COMPOSITION AND JOURNALISM

A continuation of English III.

Three hours a week, second semester.

B—COURSES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

VII. HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

A general outline course in English literature from Beowulf to the year 1900.

Required of all students majoring in English Literature unless an equivalent is offered, but may not be counted as a major course to make up the twenty-four hours required of English Majors. Also required of Freshmen not presenting four years of high school English for college entrance.

Elective course.

Three hours a week, first semester. Miss Todd.

A continuation of English VII.

Three hours a week, second semester. Miss Todd.

IX. SHAKESPEARE

(a) An intensive study of three plays of Shakespeare including Hamlet or Othello.

An outline course in 17th, 18th, and 19th century essayists and prose writers, including Dryden, Addison, Steele, Swift, Johnson, Goldsmith and others.

Three hours, first semester.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course. Miss Todd.

*XVI. CHIEF ESSAYISTS AND PROSE WRITERS

A continuation of XV, including Lamb, DeQuincey, Carlyle, Ruskin, Arnold, and others.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, second semester. Miss Todd.

*XVII. TENNYSON

A study of the life and writings of Alfred, Lord Tennyson. Thesis required.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, first semester. Mr. Nichols.

*XVIII. BROWNING

A study of the life and writings of Robert Browning. Thesis required.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, second semester. Mr. Nichols.

!XIX. PROSE FICTION

A study of the history and technique of the novel with outside reading in the 19th century authors. Seminar course; oral reports, lecture and thesis required.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, first semester. Mr. Nichols.

!XX. PROSE FICTION

A study of the rise, development, and technique of the Modern Short Story with extensive outside reading in English, Continental, and American stories. Seminar course; oral reports, lecture and thesis required.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours, second semester. Mr. Nichols.

Continuation of German XI.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII, VIII, IX and X given in alternate years. VII and VIII omitted in 1917-18.

GEOLOGY

Geo. Robertson, Professor

I. GENERAL GEOLOGY

Lectures, recitations, laboratory and field work. The study will include the salient and economic features of the science, giving a systematic and comprehensive knowledge of the most important teachings of Geology. The course will cover (a) Dynamical, (b) Structural and (c) Historical Geology. Attention will be given to the Petrology and Crystallography of the common rocks and minerals.

Prerequisite, Biology I-IV. Major.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, first semester.

II. GENERAL GEOLOGY

Continuation of Geology I. Historical Geology continued and developed, especially California conditions. Major.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours and one laboratory period of two hours per week, second semester.

GREEK

James W. Kyle, Professor

Courses III, IV, V, VI, VII, VIII, IX and X will be accepted as majors.

I and II. ELEMENTARY GREEK

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY

Victor L. Duke, Professor

Henry W. Stager, Professor

Courses I, II, III, V, and VI may not be counted toward a major in Mathematics and not more than one of the courses IV, VII and VIII may be so counted.

I. ALGEBRA

This course is substantially equivalent to Intermediate Algebra, frequently offered for matriculation. It should be taken by all Freshmen who do not offer this course for entrance.

Freshman course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

II. TRIGONOMETRY

Analytic Trigonometry, the proof and applications of the fundamental relations among the functions of angles. Practical Trigonometry, the solution of the plane triangle, measurements of heights and distances, sufficient of Spherical Trigonometry to determine the spherical triangle.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I.

Freshman course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. SOLID GEOMETRY

The fundamental propositions of Solid and Spherical Geometry with many original exercises applied especially to the mensuration of solids.

Freshman course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. COLLEGE ALGEBRA

Rapid review of the Theory of Quadratic Equations, Permutations and Combinations, Series, Logarithms, Determinants and elementary Theory of Equations.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

V. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

A study of the heavenly bodies, their constitution, laws of motion, physical properties and the processes by which man discovers these facts.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I and II.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VI. DESCRIPTIVE AND GENERAL ASTRONOMY

Continuation of Mathematics V.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII. ELEMENTS OF ANALYTIC GEOMETRY

A study of the point, the line and the circle, with some of the more important and elementary theorems on the conic sections.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I and II.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. ELEMENTARY PROJECTIVE GEOMETRY

Fundamental concepts; anharmonic ratio; projective pencils and ranges. Designed especially for those who propose to teach mathematics.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I and II.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

IX. DIFFERENTIAL AND INTEGRAL CALCULUS

Fundamental formulae and processes of differentiation and an insight into the powerful factor which this subject is in modern scientific research.

Prerequisite Mathematics I, II, VII.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

X. DIFFERENTIAL AND INTEGRAL CALCULUS

Continuation of IX.

A study of the processes of integration and their application to physical and mechanical problems.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I, II, VII, IX.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

*XI. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

A more detailed study of the properties of the conic section; some insight into the study of higher plane curves.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I, II, IV, VII, IX, X.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

XII. ADVANCED ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY

Continuation of Mathematics XI, including introduction to modern methods in analytic geometry.

Three hours per week, second semester.

XIII. THEORY OF EQUATIONS

Equations of higher degrees, symmetric functions of roots, determinants of higher orders.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I, II, IV, VII, IX.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

*XIV. ANALYTIC GEOMETRY OF THREE DIMENSIONS

Analytic study of the plane and straight line in space, surfaces of the second degree, introduction to theory of surfaces in general.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I-IV, VII, IX.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

XV. DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

Principles involved in the solution of such equations and the applications of this branch of mathematics to mechanics.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I, II, IV, VII, IX, X.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

*XVI. ADVANCED INTEGRAL CALCULUS

Special attention will be given to the definite integral and to elliptic integrals.

Prerequisite, Mathematics I, II, IV, VII, IX, X.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

*Courses XI, XIV and XVI will not be given during the year 1917-18.

PHILOSOPHY AND EDUCATION

Herbert E. Wise, Professor

For the student who desires to major in Philosophy, the course is designed to arouse an eager interest in the great problems of the universe and human experience; to stimulate accurate reflection thereupon, and to elicit personal judgment, such as will adequately meet the requirements of the complex nature of man.

Courses I, II, V, VI, and VIII are required of students majoring in Philosophy. The additional six hours may be chosen from IV and VII. All of these courses will be accepted as majors.

I. LOGIC

Historic stages in the development of logic; principles of deduction and induction; detection of fallacies; training in discriminative and consecutive thinking.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

II. INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY

This course affords a survey of the field of philosophic enquiry, both in its historical and interpretative aspects.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. PSYCHOLOGY

An introduction to the field of Psychology. The elements and functions of conscious life, and the affective, discursive and volitional processes are studied in their relation to practical life.

Papers and reports of individual inquiry supplement the text.

Biology III is most desirable as preparation for this course. Major course.

Junior-Senior course.

Four hours per week, first semester.

*IV. (a) PRINCIPLES OF EDUCATION

This course emphasizes the distinguishing aspects of the educative process, comprising the biological, psychological, sociological, and religious. Text is supplemented by special investigations.

Pre-requisite III. Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

(b) HISTORY OF EDUCATION

The functional aspects of the history of education are traced thru Ancient, Mediaeval and Modern periods, as shown in individual and social aims. Text, lectures and reports.

Prerequisite III.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

V. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY

The course traces the development of philosophy from the Greek interpretation of the universe to the scientific explanation of the modern period. Careful attention is given to Plato and Aristotle; to the period of Scholasticism; and to the independent thinkers from Descartes to Hume.

Special studies supplement the text at historic epochs.

Pre-requisites, Phil. I, II.

Junior-Senior course.

Four hours per week, first semester.

VI. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY (continued).

Particular attention is given to the rise and development of the Kantian system; to Kant's influence upon subsequent thought; and to Post-Kantian Idealism in Europe and America, chiefly with reference to Hegelianism and its tendencies. Thesis required.

Prerequisites, Phil. I, II, V.

Four hours per week, second semester.

*VII (a) PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION

Nature and development of religion; characteristic aspects of developed religion; religious knowledge and its validity; the ultimate truth of religion.

Prerequisites, Phil. I, II, III, V, VI.

Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

(b) PSYCHOLOGY OF RELIGION

The phenomena of the religious life; the psychology of conversion, its types and manifestations; the psychology of faith and its enlarging spheres of consciousness.

Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. CONTEMPORARY PHILOSOPHY

The ruling ideas of present philosophical thought are viewed critically, while select reading from representative thinkers enables the student to construct for himself a comprehensive and consistent philosophy of life. Thesis required.

Prerequisites, Phil. I, II, III, V, VI.

Senior course.

Four hours per week, second semester.

IX. THEISM

Divine and human personality; arguments for the Divine existence; principal Anti-Theistic theories; ethical and religious teaching of Christianity; relation of Christianity to other religions.

Senior course.

Two hours per week, first semester.

X. ETHICS

This course treats of problems and relations, moral standards, theories of moral values, and includes an historical survey of the classical schools. Thesis required.

Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

* (a) Omitted in 1917-18.

GENERAL PHYSICS

Herbert E. Marsh, Professor

I. MECHANICS, MOLECULAR PHYSICS AND HEAT

This course is designed for those who have not had a requisite amount of work in this subject to undertake the more advanced courses III and IV, and also to meet the requirements of courses involving the essentials of this branch of science. May be pursued without previous work in Physics.

Prerequisite Math. I.

This course may not be counted as a major.

Recitations and lectures three hours and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

II. CONTINUATION OF I.

Recitations and lectures three hours and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

III. MECHANICS, MOLECULAR PHYSICS, HEAT AND SOUND

Altho the grasping of principles and not skill in manipulation is strongly emphasized, still the fixing power of laboratory application is recognized. The purpose is to give the student an insight into the real significance of physical things, by putting him in touch with the methods and instruments of modern physical investigation and by carrying him thru the process of reasoning by which the present science of physics has been developed. Prerequisite, one year of entrance Physics and Mathematics II and IV. Major course.

Junior Senior course.

Recitation and lectures two hours and two laboratory periods per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

IV. LIGHT, ELECTRICITY AND MAGNETISM

Continuation of Physics III. Presented in a similar manner and with the same aim.

Junior-Senior course.

Recitation and lectures two hours and two laboratory periods per week, second semester.

V. ELECTRICAL MEASUREMENTS

Various methods for exact determination of voltage, resistance, and current; also study and calibration of various types of galvanometers, voltmeters, ammeters, condensers, etc.

Major course.

Junior-Senior course.

One recitation and three laboratory periods per week, first semester.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE

H. C. Tilton, Professor

All courses listed under this department will be accepted as majors.

I. INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY

A study of the origin and development of the family and the evolution of certain social institutions. Modern social problems such as divorce, immigration, pauperism, socialism, etc., will receive due attention.

Sophomore course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

II. PRINCIPLES OF SOCIOLOGY

An analysis of social life and the forces producing social organization; application of principles to concrete problems. Text, lectures and reports.

Prerequisite, Psychology and Course I.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

III. INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMICS

The development and significance of the characteristic features of economic life, the principles governing production, distribution and consumption, and the practical economic problems of modern life. Sophomore-Junior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

IV. INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMICS

Continuation of III.

Sophomore-Junior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

V. GOVERNMENT

A discussion of the essential constituent elements of the state; of the functions and sphere of the state; of citizenship and nationality; of constitutions, their nature, sources and kinds; of the more important theories concerning the origin, nature, functions and organizations of the state.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VI. MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

Mainly a study of the modern American city will be made. The historical and comparative method will be used as examination is made of the government and experiences of European cities.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

VII. EUROPEAN GOVERNMENTS

A comparative study of the political institutions of the leading states of Europe.

Sophomore-Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

VIII. UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

The organization of state and national governments, their actual working and the history and function of political parties.

Freshman-Sophomore course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

IX. INTERNATIONAL LAW

A study of the general principles governing nations in their intercourse with each other, such as rules of peace and war, diplomatic usage and methods of arbitration. Special study of the Hague conferences.

Junior-Senior course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

X. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

Principles and development of American constitutional law. Lectures, reports and cases.

Prerequisite, V. or VIII.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

XI. ECONOMIC THEORY

Special studies in the leading problems of economic theory, such as the nature and origin of value, the laws of normal value and origin of interest.

Prerequisite, III and IV.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

XII. INDUSTRIAL CORPORATIONS

The course deals with the nature and history of corporations and their significance in modern life. Attention is given to the problems arising from the growth of corporations and combinations, and to various remedies proposed.

Prerequisite, III and IV.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

XIII. MONEY AND BANKING

Principles of money; recent monetary history; present problems with reference to the reform of the banking system in the United States.

Prerequisite, III and IV.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

XIV. LABOR PROBLEMS

History and development of organized labor, labor problems, and labor legislation.

Prerequisite, III and IV.

Elective course.

Three hours per week, second semester.

SPANISH

Edith A. Hill, Professor

I. FIRST YEAR SPANISH

Ready familiarity with the essentials of Spanish grammar, and systematic training in pronunciation, conversation and reading.

Four hours per week, first semester.

II. FIRST YEAR SPANISH

Continuation of Spanish I.

I. and II are continuous course.

Four hours per week, second semester.

III. SECOND YEAR SPANISH

Selected texts from modern Spanish authors.

Major course.

Three hours per week, first semester.

College of Fine Arts

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC AND ART

GENERAL INFORMATION

In accordance with the plan followed in connection with the other departments of the University, provisions have been made for the most thorough and advanced work in the Departments of Music and Art.

The line of work in the University course in Music, conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, corresponds with that of some of the European Universities.

Preparatory, or Elementary work has also been provided to accommodate those who have not the proper number of entrance requirements for registration in the College work in Music. Saturday classes for children and young people in both Piano and Art provide a valuable opportunity for the cultivation of talent in the early years under the guidance of competent instructors, who are under the supervision of the Dean of the College of Fine Arts.

Realizing the extent to which superior musical efficiency is attainable only in conjunction with the highest cultural development, stress is laid upon this phase of the students' growth; and special attention is directed to such courses in the other departments of the University as will prove of value in this respect to Music and Art students.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

A Choral Society under the direction of the Head of the Department of Voice gives opportunity for expression and development of musical ability to the students of the entire University.

The College of Fine Arts is prepared to furnish the following eminent soloists for concerts, recitals, etc., in whole or in part:

Olga Steeb, the celebrated pianist.

Oskar Seiling, the famous violinist.

Dean Chas. Edward Hubach, noted tenor.

Also the University Octet and the College Glee Club of men's voices are open to a limited number of engagements.

For particulars and terms, address the Dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of Redlands, Redlands, California.

Classes in the Department of Music will be organized at the beginning of the college year, as indicated in the Calendar.

Special lessons may be begun at any time.

Piano practice may be arranged for at the Fine Arts Building or Bekins Hall.

DEPARTMENTS, DEGREES AND REQUIREMENTS

DEPARTMENTS

The College of Fine Arts is made up of the following Departments:

- (1) Music.
- (2) Drawing and Painting.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES

A Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music, will be awarded to those who complete the required courses in the department of Music.

A Special Diploma conferring the degree of Bachelor of Music will be awarded to those who complete the required courses with high standing in all subjects as well as in public performance.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

There are two methods of admission to the College of Fine Arts, (1) by Examination, (2) by Certificate.

By Examination:—All students who cannot present certificates from accredited schools will be examined in the subjects required for entrance.

By Certificate:—Students will be admitted without examination on certificates from accredited High Schools or other preparatory schools, provided that the course pursued in High School shall include at least twelve units in subjects usually designated as solids.

Students who do not present Physics for entrance will be required to pursue that subject thru at least the discussion of Sound.

In Piano and Organ—Applicants are required in addition to the above to pass an examination embracing the following or their equivalent:

1. An exercise. 2. Selections from Bach. 3. Sonata—Classical School.

In Voice and Violin:—Applicants for the regular course in Voice, or Violin must be able to play Piano accompaniment of moderate difficulty. Any deficiencies in this respect must be made up before graduation.

SPECIAL STUDENTS IN MUSIC

Students need not be deterred from seeking to enter the School of Fine Arts of the University because they can not satisfy all the requirements for full admission to that school. Those requirements are for persons who are candidates for a degree in music. All persons who desire to pursue a special line of work, without conforming to the requirements for entrance, or following a prescribed course, may apply for admission to the School of Fine Arts as special students. The admission of such persons is under the control of the Dean, to whom they should apply, and whose certificate of acceptance must be presented to the Registrar before registration.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

No student will be permitted to graduate from the Department of Music, College of Fine Arts, who has not credit for the 124 hours as designated below, including two years of physical education, and who has not taken at least one year of regular work at the University.

Students taking instrument work in music are required to practice two hours per day for each lesson taken per week. This is considered as laboratory work, and together with the lesson taken gives three hours of college credit toward the 124 hours required for graduation.

Students taking Voice are required to practice from one-half hour to two hours per day, according to the grade of the work, for each lesson taken per week. This is considered as laboratory work, and together with the lesson taken gives the student two hours of college credit toward the 124 required for graduation.

Note—For description of required Liberal Arts courses see Departments of Instruction, College of Liberal Arts.

ART

Students for the Art Department will be admitted at any time, but not for less than one semester except by special arrangement with the Dean.

Instruction in all Art classes is individual. Advancement of each student depends upon the degree of proficiency attained.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

ARTISTS' COURSE—COLLEGIATE COURSE

These courses are identical in outline, but students in the Artists' course are expected to do a larger amount of work, to maintain the highest grade in all musical subjects, and give a graduating recital. This is not required in the collegiate course, which is intended for those who wish to fit themselves for teachers or take music for personal culture rather than to become public performers. After the second year students are graded in the two courses according to their standing.

Students who are backward in technical development at the end of the Sophomore year must make up the deficiency by special work in Piano before they receive Junior standing.

UNIVERSITY OF REDLANDS

CONCERTS AND RECITALS

Concerts are frequently given in Recital Hall, by the Faculty and advanced students.

Concert courses which are arranged for at special rates by the Spinet Club of Redlands, afford Students an opportunity to hear many noted musicians.

Recitals are given semi-monthly by the students of the College of Fine Arts at which works studied in the class room are performed before audiences of fellow students and their friends. All Fine Arts students are required to attend these concerts and recitals, and to take part in programs at least twice a year and to present, each semester, a record of attendance. These semi-public appearances are of great assistance in enabling the student to acquire the ease and self-possession so essential to a successful public appearance.

At the close of the college year, during Commencement Week, the Anniversary Recital of the College of Fine Arts, Department of Music is held; at which the students doing the best work in performance at the above-mentioned recitals will be heard.

EXPENSES

A Matriculation fee of Five Dollars is required of each student on registration at the offices of the University.
